2 Shots Halt Wild Chase In San Rafael

Youth, 19, In Stolen Auto Speeds 80 MPH In Town

Two shots fired by a deputy sheriff into the rear of a stolen car being driven by a 19-year-old Woodacre youth last night failed to halt the youth's wild drive through downtown San Rafael streets at speeds over 80 miles per hour.

The youth, Israel Whittacker, was captured when he looked over his shoulder to see how far behind Deputy Arthur Wiggin's patrol car was and lost control of his car which ran headon into a tree on the north side of Fifth Avenue, just beyond D Street.

He was captured at gunpoint by Wiggins, after he stumbled dazed from the car with a cut forehead. Whittacker was taken to San Rafael General Hospital for treatment.

He was being held today in jail on $1,827.50 bail to appear in court Monday to face charges of stealing a car and eight traffic violations.

The chase began when Wiggins spotted Whittacker driving through a stop sign at Cijos and Third streets shortly before 7 p.m.

The youth saw the flashing red light on the deputy's car and accelerated to 60 miles per hour in the 1954 Cadillac convertible.

He picked up speed while traveling south on C Street at 70 miles per hour. Turning into San Rafael Avenue, Whittacker's car hit a parked car belonging to Billy Joe Taylor of 20 Madrona Street, San Rafael, but he kept going.

On San Rafael Avenue Wiggins fired a shot into the rear of the fleeing car.

Whittacker, according to the deputy, was going over 80 miles per hour when Wiggins fired another shot into the rear of the car on D Street. Wiggins dropped behind Whittacker's car about a block and one-half, he said, because he didn't want to risk going through intersections at high speeds.

San Rafael police said the car was stolen from Paul Gardner's Auto Sales, 836 Third Street, on Aug. 3.

Tennessee's Kefauver Dies Of Heart Attack

Fellow Senators Pay Tribute To Tall Man

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), former farm boy whose lifelong dream was to become president, died today of a massive heart attack.

The 60-year-old senator, with the trademark of a coonskin cap, who twice unsuccessfully sought the Democratic presidential nomination, died "quickly and peacefully" at nearby Bethesda, Md., naval hospital at 3:40 a.m., associates said.

Kefauver had entered the hospital late Thursday for treatment of what at first was believed to be a severe attack of indigestion. Tests yesterday brought a diagnosis of a mild heart attack.

However, additional tests disclosed that the condition was more serious, even though Kefauver apparently experienced no additional increase in pain. Doctors discovered that he had suffered a rupture of an inner wall of the aorta, the main vessel through which the heart pumps blood to all parts of the body.

Before an operation could be arranged to repair the damage, a fatal rupture of the entire wall of the aorta occurred.

The death of Kefauver, who never attained his presidential ambitions but nevertheless won a wide reputation as a senatorial crimebuster and battler for other causes, stunned leaders of Congress. Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said it is "a very big loss to the Congress." Republican Leader Everett Dirksen said he was very distressed at the news.

The tall Tennesseean was elected by a booming majority in 1960 to a third Senate term in what had been predicted as a close race because of his votes for some civil rights legislation. His big win was correctly seen by Democratic leaders as boding good for their side in the subsequent presidential elections.

Kefauver experienced bitter disappointment both in 1952 and 1956 when he tried and failed to attain a shot at the goal he set for himself as a high school youth—the presidency. He was beaten by Adlai Stevenson both times for the Democratic presidential nomination.

He gunned for the vice presidential nomination after Stevenson won top spot in 1956, and won the second place in a

Family Pays Last Respects To President's Infant Son

BOSTON (UPI) — President John F. Kennedy, sorrow etched on his face, buried his infant son Patrick Bouvier today after simple funeral services and a moving farewell at the side of the grave.

Only the closest members of the Kennedy family were with the chief executive at the Mass of the Angels said for the child and later at the cemetery in suburban Brookline.

The graveside service took just a few minutes and the mourners then moved back to give the president a final moment with the son who died yesterday after living just 39 hours.

The president moved close to the little white casket and placed his hand on the cover for a moment, his head bowed in grief. Then he turned away and followed the other members of the party to the waiting cars.

The president flew immediately back to Otis Air Force Base on Cape Cod to be with his sorrowing wife, Jacqueline, who is recuperating at the hospital there from the Caesarean section she underwent last Wednesday. The surgery prevented her from attending the funeral services with the president.

The Kennedys' two other children, 5-year-old Caroline and 2-year-old John Jr. remained at the summer White House in Hyannis Port.

Only Dr. John W. Walsh, Mrs. Kennedy's obstetrician, was with her while the services were held here. It was understood that Dr. Walsh requested she have no visitors during the trying time.

The president spent about 50 minutes with his wife after returning to Otis. He wore dark glasses and his face was grimly serious as he rushed up the steps of the hospital, followed by Mrs. Kennedy's sister, Princess Lee Radziwell, the first lady's stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, and their children, Janet, 18, and Jamie, 15. All except the president remained just a few minutes, leaving him alone with his wife.

Marin Student Blamed For 'Wade-In' Dispute In South

By JIM WILLWERTH

It was trouble enough for College of Marin student Chris M. Cason of 110 Avenida Mira Flores, Tiburon, to lose his way in Mississippi while traveling cross-country to the Gulf Coast this summer—but in the process he was also blamed for causing a racial demonstration.

Cason, who recently returned to Marin County after spending two months with the J. R. George family of Oceanside, Miss., formerly from Greenbrae, was involved in a "wade-in" integration demonstration in Biloxi, Miss., last June only long enough to be called the cause of it.

He came upon the gathering about 2:30 p.m. June 23 after making a wrong turn on Federal Highway 90 toward Gulfport, Miss. The demonstration scene was a Biloxi beach considered by local residents to be private property, but held by Negro demonstrators as public due to Federal renovation of the site some 15 years ago.

Seventy-one people were arrested that day, 68 Negroes and three whites — one of whom tried to stop the demonstration with a .38-caliber snub-nosed revolver, according to local newspaper reports.

"My immediate reaction upon seeing the crowd," said Cason, "was to stop and find a parking place so I could watch. The Negro people had come to the beach carrying black flags on their cars and were lined up on the beach three abreast.

"I was cruising slowly past the crowd, looking for a parking place, when half a dozen young men (white) spotted my California license plates and started yelling:

"'You G . . d . . . Yankee, coming down here from the North. You're the cause of all this.'

"They started coming toward the car," said Cason. "Here was this group of guys, advancing toward my car, swearing and saying I was the cause of this demonstration. I left in a hurry.

"What impressed me," he added, "was the orderliness of

Major Marine Center At Tiburon Predicted

The Tiburon net depot will become a major West Coast research center equal to the University of California's Scripps Institute at La Jolla, San Diego County, a Department of Interior scientist predicted today.

In the wake of yesterday's announcement that the department was taking over the facility from the Navy, Dr. John E. Calhoun, department science adviser and coordinator, said the facility would be the base for marine research in Central California.

Development as a major center, however, will depend on appropriation of enough money in the next session of Congress, he said. Plans are still in the initial stages.

Yesterday's announcement came from the office of Rep. Donald H. Clausen (R-Crescent City). Calhoun, who called Clausen in Washington, D.C., today, said first step will be consolidation of all department facilities at the center.

These include researchers for the U.S. Geological Survey in Menlo Park, staff from the Bureau of Mines at Fort Mason, four personel from the U.S. Bureau of Sports Fisheries and Wildlife and one scientist from the U.S. Bureau of Commercial Fisheries.

Aerojet General Corp. was to use the depot as a base for underwater tests of liquid fuel rockets in the bay, but the firm's contract fell through.

Telephone Merger Is Announced

The Western California Telephone Co. which serves Novato has merged with the General Telephone and Electronics Corp. of Santa Monica.

Edward W. Vodden, president of Western California, announced yesterday that General Telephone has acquired approximately 95 per cent of Western California's outstanding common stock.

The stock was acquired on the basis of 2.2 shares of GT&F in exchange for each share of common on Western California Telephone.

Western California is quoted on the stock market at $53 a share. The 2.2 shares of General Telephone would be worth about $57, according to yesterday's closing price.

Western California's stock started upward from below $20 a share after rumors of the merger began last year.

Western California, with headquarters in Los Gatos, acquired the Novato Phone Co. in 1951 with common stock selling at $16 a share. The company serves approximately 25,000 telphones in Los Gatos, Morgan Hill, Novato and Kenwood.

2 Light Quakes Jar East Bay

OAKLAND (UPI) — Two light earthquakes jarred communities along the east shore of San Francisco Bay today, but no damage was reported.

The first shock occurred at 6:23 a.m. and measured less than 2.0 on the Richter magnitude scale. The second, stronger quake came at 7:32. It measured about 3.0.

Don Tocher, University of California seismologist, said the quakes apparently were caused by slippage along the Hayward fault.

Kennedy Will Confer With Rusk On Khrushchev Talks

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (UPI) President John F. Kennedy will confer by telephone tomorrow and personally Monday with Secretary of State Dean Rusk on his talks in Russia with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, the White House said today.

Rusk will be back in Washington tomorrow when the president talks with him by phone from here, press secretary Pierre Salinger told reporters. (See also, page 2.)

The secretary flew to Moscow a week ago to sign the nuclear test ban treaty and meet with Soviet leaders on prospects for further cold war easings.

Kennedy, who has been at Cape Cod since Wednesday, when his wife gave birth to a boy that died 39 hours later, plans to fly back to Washington early Monday afternoon.

Salinger said it is likely the president will fly back to Cape Cod in midweek, for a day or so, to visit his wife again. Then he will return to Washington and come back to Cape Cod next weekend.

Mrs. Kennedy is at the Otis Air Force Base Hospital, about 18 miles from the summer White House at Squaw Island in Hyannis Port.

Stay Granted 3 Slated To Die In Gas Chamber

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Three men scheduled to die in the gas chamber at San Quentin Prison next Wednesday won a stay of execution from the State Supreme Court Friday.

The court also ordered a hearing Sept. 4 on a petition by the three—Joseph Rosoto, John Vlahovich and Donald Franklin—for a writ of error setting aside their death sentences.

The three were convicted of plotting to kill Anaheim bar owner Leslie J. Simpson Feb. 7, 1959, to prevent him from testifying against Rosoto in a robbery trial.

They claim in their writ of error petition they were convicted on perjured testimony by Michael Rosoto.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The body of a man tentatively identified as Jack Donati, about 55, was pulled from San Francisco Bay yesterday by Scouts aboard the Sea Scout ship Sea Horse.

Police listed Donati's death an apparent suicide after finding a note in a pocket of a coat the man left on pier 45 at Aquatic Park.

The message read "My news got me. Farewell."

Day Says Nixon May Be Nominee

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Former Postmaster General J. Edward Day says he thinks the next Republican presidential nominee will be Richard M. Nixon.

Day, whose resignation became effective yesterday, told the Rotary Club:

"I do think that Nixon will turn out to be the only one that can heal the deep split in the Republican Party."

Day said Nixon, despite his move from his native California to New York, still was looking to another crack at the presidency.

"My guess is that the Republicans are going to run another 'me too' style New York governor—a sort of latter-day Dewey — as their candidate. And when that happens, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller can pass the ball to Mr. Nixon, who will be conveniently available nearby."

"Of course," Day added, "something might happen to throw Sen. Barry Goldwater on the hopes of both these gentlemen."

'Unruh Won't Be Postmaster'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Former Postmaster General J. Edward Day said he is confident that President John F. Kennedy will not appoint California State Assembly Speaker Jesse Unruh the next postmaster general.

Day, commented after reading a report that Unruh would take over his old post.

"I am confident," he said, "that the president will not appoint a man whose main qualifications are political manipulation and power plays. I am sure the president wants a continuation of the emphasis on better mail service rather than boss politics in the Post Office Department."

Acting Postmaster

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (UPI)—Sidney Bishop, a Los Angeles attorney, became acting postmaster general of the United States today. But he was not expected to hold the post long.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Herbert Hoover Is 89 Years Old

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Herbert Hoover, well along in a great comeback from a serious illness, celebrates his 89th birthday today.

Hoover

As a concession to his continuing convalescence, however, Hoover dispensed with the informal news conference he customarily holds the day before a birthday.

But he issued a statement expressing his confidence in America and thanking "the thousands of good people who sent me messages of good will during my illness and greetings now for my 89th birthday."

The former chief executive works at his desk in his Waldorf Towers suite for a time each day, is in good spirits, and is especially anxious to finish his "Magnum Opus"—an unfinished history of the past 30 years.

Hoover will take time off from his "Magnum Opus" today, spending the hours in his suite with members of his family.

Hoover has lived to a riper age than any president except John Adams, the second president, who lived past the age of 90.

Demo Warns GOP Of Birchers

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Democratic national chairman John M. Bailey warned today that the Republican Party was in danger of becoming an "instrument of the John Birch Society."

Bailey

He said "detailed plans" for a "right wing takeover" of the GOP had already been framed—at a recent human events conference in Washington.

Keynoting California's 1963 Democratic State Convention, Bailey chastized GOP national chairman William Miller for a recent statement that he did not know of the ultra-right wing.

"I must sympathize with the Republican chairman who has been kept so much in the dark," Bailey told fellow Democrats. "I am afraid that when he comes out of his Rip Van Winkle siesta he will discover that the Republican Party has become an instrument of the John Birch Society."

Bailey suggested that Miller "establish a Republican pony express route between California and Washington since the far right has apparently cut the telephone wires to the national committee.

Bride Wore Black For Wedding

HARROGATE, England (UPI) — The bride wore black at her wedding to show, she said, that "I'm no chattel."

School teacher Helen Barclay, 22, also broke a string of other conventions yesterday when she married Stephen Fitzpatrick, 24, an engineer, in St. Robert's Roman Catholic Church.

There was no best man; no one gave away the bride. There was no reception and no guests were invited outside their two families.

And when the new Mrs. Fitzpatrick left after the wedding for France and Italy—"not for a honeymoon, but for a holiday," she insisted—she wore slacks.

Bride and groom both said they were aiming at "a marriage of equals."

"I feel that weddings have become a mixture of superstitution, pagan fertility rites and commercialism," said the bride.

Actress Sues

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Singer-actress Joan O'Brien, who two days ago told police that her husband of four months beat her and destroyed her clothing, sued for divorce yesterday.

She charged actor Harvey Allen, 31, with extreme cruelty and asked the court to enjoin him from annoying her.

Holdup In City

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Three youthful thugs held up a savings and loan company for $2,400 yesterday and walked right into the lowered muzzles of police revolvers.

Officers credited citizens in nearby offices with the quick arrest of the trio that held up the Security Savings and Loan Assn. on Grant Avenue.

Police said office workers nearby saw the men pull on gloves and check their weapons before entering the building. After taking the money, the robbers ran out to face waiting police. Two surrendered immediately and the third was captured after running into a nearby building.

Police said that the robbers had not given their correct names and that a check into their real identities was underway.

Judge To Serve

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Judge Oliver D. Hamlin Jr. will serve in a limited capacity as judge of the Ninth U. S. Court of Appeals after he retires Sept. 5.

Senator Buying Paper

MARTINEZ (AP)—The Contra Costa Gazette, only daily newspaper published in Martinez, is to be sold within 10 days to Sen. Luther Gibson, publisher of two dailies in Vallejo.

The impending sale of the 105-year-old daily, with two associated weekly newspapers and a commercial printing plant, was confirmed yesterday by Will R. Sharkey, publisher of the Gazette.

Gibson Publications produces the Vallejo Times-Herald and News-Chronicle.

Sharkey said the sale has not been completed, but only technical details remained.

Included in the transaction are two weeklies—the Contra Costa Standard and the Pleasant Hill News. The Gazette, with its related papers and commercial plant, has about 40 employees.

The Gazette was acquired by State Sen. Will R. Sharkey in 1906, two years after it became a daily. His grandson, Will R. Sharkey III, is editor.

Viet Child Shot

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI)—The U. S. Army today investigated the killing of a Vietnamese child by an American helicopter gunner whose machine gun accidentally was triggered by an entangled communications cord.

A U. S. military spokesman said the offense could lead to a court martial, but he indicated this was not likely.

The gunner, whose identity was withheld, was hospitalized with shock, the spokesman said.

The accidental strafing in a strategic hamlet north of Saigon also wounded four other persons. None was in critical condition.

Castro Farm Plans

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro plans to nationalize those large farms in Cuba which still are in control of "bourgeois" landowners.

But "there is no hurry," Castro said last night in announcing a reorganization of Cuba's troubled agriculture.

He spelled out few details. He predicted that 70 per cent of all farm land will pass into government hands and the rest will be retained by small farmers.

"It may take 25 to 30 years" to achieve the distribution, he told the National Association of Small Farmers. "What we need now is increased production."

Chlorine Gas Leak

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Chlorine gas leaking from a railroad tank car wafted through an eight-block, thickly populated area yesterday and felled an estimated 400 persons, many of them children. No fatalities were reported.

Firemen and policemen, caught off guard, had no time to don gas masks and dropped in their tracks upon arriving at the scene in response to the first calls for emergency equipment. For nearly an hour confusion reigned in the area.

People dropped like flies, not knowing what had happened.

Arrested For Slaying

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Charles Burger, 18, a onetime mental patient, was charged with murder today in the slaying of a Roman Catholic priest.

Police in suburban Yonkers, where Burger was arrested, termed the slaying senseless. They said the youth offered no motive for the fatal stabbing of the Rev. Francis J. McShane, 42, in the Manhattan apartment of the priest's sister.

Burger was returned to New York for arraignment.

Scotland Yard Hunts Train Bandits

LONDON (AP)—Flying squads from Scotland Yard raided homes in London's East End today, hunting bandits who got away with more than seven million dollars in the world's greatest train robbery. An international search order also went out for the suspected mastermind.

Most of the loot, valued at 2,525,100 pounds — $7,070,280 —was in dog-eared but easily spendable paper currency that banks were shipping to London for re-pulping.

Scotland Yard described the suspect as a master planner who would be able to maintain almost military discipline in his gang.

Detectives said the man has not been seen in any of his usual haunts. They believe he may have sought to establish an alibi by leaving Britain several days before the Glasgow-London mail train was robbed Thursday at a lonely spot 40 miles northwest of London.

Interpol, the international police organization, has been asked to search for the suspect in the holiday resorts of southern France and Spain.

Detectives here hunted for signs of mail bags that had been burned or destroyed. Insurance companies and the Post Office tried to flush out a stool pigeon with rewards totalling 260,000 pounds—$720,000—some $28,000 more than the loot from Britain's previous record mail robbery in 1952.

Since a gang of 15 or more carried out the theft, the reward would be bigger than any individual share of the loot.

It would be tax free, with no questions asked.

Police said none of the serial numbers of the stolen currency was recorded.

More Estes Trouble

PECOS, Tex. (UPI)—Farm tycoon Billie Sol Estes, already bankrupt and facing a long series of prison terms, is in trouble with the federal government again, this time over back taxes.

The Internal Revenue Service late yesterday filed a 10.5-million-dollar tax lien against Estes and his wife Patsy.

The lien said the government sought "additional" taxes for the year 1961. It was filed in the Reeves County clerk's office only minutes before it closed for the day at 5 p.m. The claim was believed to be against all assets of Estes, including his palatial home.

Beckwith In Jail

BRANDON, Miss. (UPI) — Accused slayer Byron de la Beckwith, ordered released from the state mental hospital, was being held today in the Rankin County jail here.

Circuit Judge O. H. Barnett issued the order at Carthage yesterday to have Beckwith, who is charged with the slaying of Negro leader Medgar Evers, released from the Mississippi Mental Hospital.

Defense attorneys claimed a proposed mental examination of Beckwith would violate his right to a speedy trial.

Rusk Flies To Bonn For A-Pact Support

MOSCOW (AP)—U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk flew to Bonn today to rally West German support for the nuclear test ban treaty after wide-ranging talks with Soviet Premier Khrushchev on cold war issues.

Rusk scheduled the 20-hour stopover partly to soothe West German apprehension over the limited test ban pact which Communist East Germany plans to sign. Bonn fears the treaty could be manipulated to force recognition of East Germany and seal the division of Germany.

West Germany wants assurance that the test treaty will not be used to jeopardize the freedom and security of West Berlin.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder were expected to insist to Rusk that the West receive such a guarantee before West Germany adheres to the treaty.

They are expected to make similar demands in considering Khrushchev's proposals to ease cold war tensions — an East-West nonaggression pact, reductions in military spending, and ground inspection teams on both sides of the Iron Curtain to guard against surprise attack.

Rusk planned to brief the West German leaders on his week of talks in the Soviet Union before returning to Washington Monday to drum up support for Senate ratification of the test ban treaty.

Rusk conferred with Khrushchev for two and one-half hours yesterday at the Soviet premier's lavish Black Sea retreat in a relaxed meeting followed by a fast game of badminton.

Khrushchev, 69, claimed victory over Rusk, 54. "Practice," Khrushchev said when Rusk told him, "You play well."

Among other things, they discussed Germany, Berlin, trade, Laos, Cuba, and the nonaggression pact. Rusk said that no conclusions were reached and that negotiations will continue through normal diplomatic channels.

There evidently was no talk of a summit meeting.

Underscoring the relaxed mood, Khrushchev permitted Western newsmen to enter his summer mansion for the first time. They got an eyeful.

The sun-drenched villa, obscured by an ugly 10-foot-high concrete block wall, contains the latest in conveniences including an indoor swimming pool, a glass-enclosed gymnasium with Oriental rugs on the floor, and an elevator on the outside of the two-story main house up to a sun roof.

After a huge Russian-style meal on a porch overlooking the sea, Rusk returned to Moscow. When he reached the Soviet capital he was informed of the death of President John F. Kennedy's baby and said only, "Oh, no!"

Fairfax Parking Solution Sought

The Fairfax Merchants Assn. will ask the city council Monday for an "equitable" solution to the problem of parking limits in the parkade, according to president George Pagni.

Pagni said association members decided Thursday night that an even distribution of parking in the parkade between a two-hour limit and all-day parking for commuters would be equitable.

Next meeting of the association will be held on Aug. 22, with the location as yet undetermined.

Talk On Sales Tax

Charles Otterman of Sacramento, assistant tax counselor for the State Board of Equalization, will outline new sales tax rules at a meeting of the North Bay Chapter of the Society of California Accountants at Franchini's Chateau, 4500 Redwood Highway, San Rafael, Aug. 19 at 7 p.m.

Fairfax Parking Solution Sought

The Fairfax Merchants Assn. will ask the city council Monday for an "equitable" solution to the problem of parking limits in the parkade, according to president George Pagni.

Pagni said association members decided Thursday night that an even distribution of parking in the parkade between a two-hour limit and all-day parking for commuters would be equitable.

Next meeting of the association will be held on Aug. 22, with the location as yet undetermined.

Tiburon Drainage District Outlined

Michael McGovern, representing Kennedy Engineers, employed by the Tiburon Sanitary District, outlined the plans for a proposed drainage district at yesterday's meeting of the Tiburon Peninsula Chamber of Commerce.

The district, trying to alleviate the Tiburon and Belvedere flooding problem, can be formed by the sanitary district and maintained by the county.

McGovern described the proposed district as including Fred Zelinsky's property now under development at the shopping center, Cove Road, Beach Road, part of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad property, Judge Field and the Tiburon Peninsula Club.

Also included is the canyon area behind the club, extending to the ridge. Hill Haven is not included. Culverts would drain to the Bay.

McGovern estimated $260,000 as the cost of the plan, which he considers the most economical at present. He added that the ultimate solution would be a pumping station costing from $400,000 to $600,000.

Individual assessments have not been determined. He cited two possibilities — all participating would share equally or the flat area would be assessed two-thirds and the hill area one-third.

Attending the meeting was Mrs. W. E. Judge to ask if this would solve the problem of the flooding of Judge Field. Sterling said it would. Mrs. Judge said she had been wanting to develop it as a Little League field and build bleachers.

Sanitary district directors are waiting for circulation of a petition for the district before proceeding with its formation.

'No Double Taxes For Tiburon'

The incorporation of Tiburon would not bring about double taxation, Elva Paske, chairman of the Tiburon Incorporation Committee, told members of the Hill Haven Property Owners Assn. last night.

County Auditor - Controller Michael Mitchell told Marin County supervisors Tuesday that there are already seven taxing districts in the area and double taxation would be a problem if a city were incorporated.

Mrs. Paske, answering a question from Milton H. Poppett, said this was misinformation. She said the Tiburon Sanitary District, within the proposed city of Tiburon, would be dissolved upon incorporation and residents would not pay to both it and the city.

Challenged on why it was not possible to predict the future tax rate more closely, Mrs. Paske replied that it all depended on how many services residents of the new city would want. She predicted 30 cents as a possible basic city tax. The fire protection district and school tax would be in addition.

tough battle from then Sen. John F. Kennedy.

Death came to the vigorous Kefauver while the Naval hospital was rushing to complete plans for an operation to repair the inner rupture of the life-giving "pipe" for blood from the heart.

His administrative assistant, Charles A. Caldwell, said doctors felt last night an operation was "clearly indicated" but elaborate arrangements had to be made.

While the arrangements were being rushed for the operation, a break in the inner wall of the aorta occurred, Caldwell said, and this ruptured the entire wall of the aorta.

"The senator died quickly and peacefully," he said.

it. The police were willing to let the people do what they wanted. The beach itself was not worth swimming on. It was filthy."

Later, according to local newspaper reports, the same law officers brought a moving van to take away demonstrators they arrested.

Cason, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Cason of the same address, is a founder of the College's Mariner Discussion Committee which sponsored a Greenwood, Miss., Negro speaker from the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee last May.

40 Cents In Jar Taken

Theft of 40 cents in pennies kept in a glass jar and a loaf of bread were reported to sheriff's deputies last night by Howard F. Davis of 351 Jean Street, Tamalpais Valley. Davis said entry was made through a bathroom window between 7 a.m. and 6 p.m. yesterday.

Hub Woman Hurt In 2-Car Crash

Sara Margaret Cook, 26, of 555 Sequoia Drive, San Anselmo, suffered minor injuries in a two-car accident at Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Stetson Avenue, Kentfield, at 11:50 a.m. yesterday.

The California Highway Patrol reported that a car driven by Robert Elmer Van DeVere, 56, of San Francisco, struck the rear of the Cook car, which had stopped for a traffic light.

Mrs. Cook was treated at Marin General Hospital for scrapes of the forearm and released. Van DeVere was cited for defective brakes.

Drunken Driver Given $110 Fine

Donald Mahoney Peninger, a 22-year-old student from 210 Monte Vista Avenue, Larkspur, was fined $110 and put on six months probation yesterday by Judge Harold J. Haley in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

Peninger was arrested Sunday by the California Highway Patrol after a minor accident on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Kentfield.

Jet Pilot Crashes

OTTAWA (AP) — A Canadian air force F-86 Sabre jet piloted by a U. S. Air Force captain crashed near a farm house 75 miles northeast of here yesterday, killing the pilot.

He was identified as Capt. James M. Keel Jr., 31.

BB Pierces Window

A BB gun pellet pierced the sliding glass window of the apartment of Walter Lebau, 409 Drake Avenue, yesterday. Lebau reported to sheriff's deputies.

OBITUARIES

John L. Burroughs Dies At 74

John L. Burroughs, 74, of 248 East Strawberry Drive, Harbor Point, a retired columnist for the Oakland Tribune, died yesterday in a local hospital after a short illness.

Burroughs worked for famed editor Fremont Older on the San Francisco Bulletin and then went on to work on the Sacramento Star before joining the Army and serving overseas during World War I.

After the war he joined the Tribune and wrote an editorial page column until he retired in 1961. He moved to Marin County after retiring.

Burroughs is survived by his wife, Fernande.

BETTY REESMAN

Funeral services for Betty Sue Reesman, 31, who died last Tuesday after a short illness at Yokata Air Force Base in Fuoka, Japan, will be held 2 p.m. Monday at Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael.

She was a native of Texas and a member of the First Baptist Church of San Rafael. She was a daughter of Mrs. Thomas Eagleton, 171 Merrydale Road, San Rafael.

She is also survived by her husband, S/Sgt. Alan R. Reesman, a son, Dennis A. and daughter, Susan I. Reesman, who were living with her on the base, and two brothers, William Rhodes of Terra Linda and Donald Stewart of Fort Ord.

Interment will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

S. SMICKLER

Samuel Smickler, 71, of 720 Pine Lane, Terra Linda, a retired leather company executive and insurance agent, died last night at a local hospital after a short illness.

Smickler, a native of Cincinnati, has been a resident of Marin County since his retirement in 1959.

He was president, treasurer and general manager of the Eagle Ottawa Leather Co., Grand Haven, Mich., from 1939-42, and a special agent for Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co., Grand Rapids, Mich., from 1944 until his retirement.

Smickler also was a certified public accountant and an officer of the Griess-Pfleger Canning Co. in Cincinnati. He was president of the Controller's Institute in Cincinnati and a charter member of Alpha Kappa Psi at the University of Cincinnati.

Surviving are his wife, Katherine, of the home address, two sons, David and Samuel Jr. of San Rafael, a sister, Mrs. Helen Linch of Ohio and three grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 10:30 a.m. at the Keaton Chapel in San Rafael. Burial will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

DANNA JOHNSTON

Former Mill Valley resident Danna Judd Johnston, 59, died Wednesday in Oxnard, Ventura County, after a short illness.

He and his wife, Mary Ann Johnston, had been living in Oxnard seven years. He was safety engineer at the Pacific Missile Test Center at nearby Point Mugu.

He was former secretary and vice president of the Mill Valley Country Club. Funeral services were held in Oxnard today.

GRACE CURTIS

Grace Curtis of 724 B Street, San Rafael, died yesterday at a local hospital after a short illness. She was 36.

A native of Boston, she lived in Marin 13 years. She was the wife of Alan Curtis, a lather. She had worked in the past as a waitress.

In addition to her husband, she leaves two daughters, Sharon Ann Volkerts of San Leandro and Norine Michaels of San Rafael, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Russell of Santa Venetia; a sister, Margaret Link of Richmond; a brother, Richard Russell of San Rafael, and two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow at Keaton's Mortuary.

JANET DAVIDSON

Janet K. Davidson, 32, 1640 Tiburon Boulevard, Tiburon, a waitress at Leslie's Coffee Shop in Tiburon, died unexpectedly yesterday, stricken while on the job.

She had been under a physician's care for some time and went next door during her lunch hour from the restaurant to be examined by a doctor at 12:40 p.m., according to the coroner's report. She died in the doctor's office at 1:20 p.m. Cause of death will not be known until pathology reports are made.

She was a native of Scotland and a member of Bartender and Culinary Workers, Local 126. She had lived in Tiburon five years.

She is survived by her husband, James Davidson of the same address; a son, James Jr., a daughter, Brenda Davidson; two sisters, Ann Clark of Australia, and Margo Dunlap of France; and two brothers, Robert Mitchell of London, England and James Mitchell of Canada.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Thursday at the Keaton Mortuary, San Rafael. Interment will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

VELLO SAUL

Vello Saul of 452 Hibiscus Way, Greenbrae, a two-year resident of Marin, died at a local hospital yesterday after a brief illness. He was 60.

A native of Estonia, he was clerk of Teamsters Security Fund.

He leaves his wife, Vilma, of Greenbrae, and a son, Paul Saul of Terra Linda.

Services will be held at 6 o'clock tonight at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael. The family prefers donations to the American Cancer Society.

Alpha Phi's Will Host Swim Party

Members of the Marin Alpha Phi Alumnae Club will entertain their husbands at their annual party to be held Aug. 25. It will take place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Gabrielsen in Ross.

Arranging the party, which will start with swimming at 3 p.m. and be followed by a cocktail hour and potluck supper, is a committee composed of Mesdames W. M. Allis, A. Philip Cramp, Thomas Ainsley and Tore Noren.

Handling specific duties are Mesdames Bink Beckmann and Alan Dunham, food; Walter S. Wright and Hugh J. Downey, location and motif. Mrs. William T. Broderick is reservations chairman. All Marin County Alpha Phi alumnae are invited.

Carpenters Group Plans Annual Picnic

The Carpenters Ladies Auxiliary 495 will hold its annual picnic at Camp Taylor on Aug. 18 at noon. Members and their families and guests will bring a hot dish, salad and dessert. Games will be played in the afternoon.

Joan Johnson Weds James M. Heady IV

St. John's Church in Ross was the setting for the Saturday evening nuptials of Joan Leone Johnson and James Madras Heady IV of Richmond. The Rev. Harold Hallett performed the ceremony.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mrs. Mervyn Coleman of San Anselmo and the late Elmer G. Johnson, was given in marriage by Mr. Coleman, her stepfather. She recited vows in a full length gown of ivory brocade with the skirt ending in a chapel length train.

Mrs. Donald Baldwin of Albany as matron of honor wore a light blue chiffon over taffeta dress.

Wayne Wilkenson of San Francisco was best man for the bridegroom, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Madras Heady III of Richmond. Ben Clark of Berkeley and Allen Hamilton of Los Angeles were the ushers.

The Meadow Club was the setting for the reception. The couple took a trip to Las Vegas and Southern California and will return to live in Berkeley.

The bride was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School and California State Polytechnic College. The bridegroom attended Contra Costa College and California Polytechnic.

Rummage Sale To Benefit Our Lady Of Fatima Chapel

A rummage sale for the benefit of the Our Lady of Fatima Chapel at historic Castillo Santo Domingo will be held on Monday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and throughout the week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Purdy, 102 Rafael Dr., San Rafael. The Purdy family are moving to Spain in September to live in the castle and supervise the restoration of the church and chapel. They are operating the property as a club and accepting a limited number of members as guests until the official opening in Easter of 1964.

Marin Debs Abroad Tomorrow For Bay Cruise, Luncheon

Tomorrow about noon the girls who will bow at the Marin Debutante Ball in December will take to the bay for a cruise aboard the 47-foot cruiser of the Evert Persons of Santa Rosa, and disembark at the St. Francis Yacht Club for luncheon in their yachting clothes.

The party, which will honor deb Janne O'Neil of Santa Rosa, will be given by Mr. and Mrs. Person, Janne's godparents, aboard their Sausalito-berthed cruiser "Rulyja" which is partially named for Janne.

About 17 of the debs plan to board the boat in Sausalito and attend the luncheon along with Janne's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Allan O'Neil of Santa Rosa.

The following day, Monday, Susan Oyster will be honored at a luncheon at Trader Vic's in San Francisco given by her mother, Mrs. Maginis Oyster of Kentfield.

All the Marin debs have been invited as well as some of Susan's friends, and about 24 guests in all will gather in the Garden Room to honor Susan, who'll leave Sept. 9 to enter Stephens College. Among the guests will be her grandmother, Mrs. Alan Maginis of San Francisco; her sister, Mrs. Glenn Gilman and her aunt, Mrs. Preston Maginis of Ross.

Mrs. Lester Wolf Elected Eight And Forty President

Another honor has come to Marin. Mrs. Lester G. Wolf of Ross was recently installed as the state president (le Chapeau) of the "fun" organization of the American Legion Auxiliary, the Eight and Forty. This is the same office held by Mrs. Walter F. Johnson of San Anselmo in 1958.

MRS. WOLF

Mrs. Wolf will be the leader of the thousands of Eight and Forty members throughout the state this year—these women banded together in the service of tubercular and cystic fibrosis children. Thousands of dollars each year are spent on camperships for underprivileged children to be sent to HiPass Health Camp, San Diego.

The National Jewish Hospital in Denver, Colo., a non-sectarian hospital, is the national project of this great humanitarian organization. A rapidly growing program, the nurses scholarship program is another being offered to encourage young women to follow this profession.

Mrs. Wolf is acting in a dual capacity this year, as she is the president (le Chapeau) of the local and very active Tamalpa Salon 558, as well as the president of the 32 salons throughout the state.

The locale of the installation was the Masonic Building in San Bernardino. The Los Angeles Salon Ritual Team performed the ceremony, with Mrs. Johnson serving as the installing officer. Also from Marin was Mrs. Warren Greenwood, who was installed as the secretary of the state and Mrs. Johnson will serve as distinguished guest chairman.

Tamalpa Salon is active in tubercular work in the county.

Couple Set Nuptial Date On Nov. 16

Gayle Sandra Friedman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Friedman of San Rafael, has set a Nov. 16 date for her wedding to Wayne Thomas Diggs. The young couple will be honored at a cocktail party tomorrow by Gayle's parents at their home.

Gayle is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Capel, and the future bridegroom is the grandson of Mrs. Addie Geister and the late Henry Geister. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Hancil Diggs of San Rafael.

Both attended San Rafael schools, and Wayne is employed with a stock and bond firm in San Francisco.

Gayle will also be honored at a luncheon Sept. 7 at the Alta Mira Hotel in Sausalito given by Mrs. Geister.

Dohrmann Home Will Be Scene For Party Tonight

Surfboards, fish nets and tiki torches will serve as decoration for the party Bernhard Dohrmann will give tonight at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alan G. Dohrmann of San Rafael.

Among his Marin Catholic High School sophomore classmates who will attend the buffet supper and dance are Ray Casteli-Blanch, Janet Daily, Mike Costello, Lorene Palereti, and Linda Best; from Drake High School, Kim Monaghan, Phyllis Luddill, Bob Stout and Lynn Stasiowski; and from Redwood High School, Jan Bowing, Bryan Daily and Linda Finnerty.

Helping to plan the party are the host's brothers, Geoffrey, Mark and Carl, and his sister, Sue Dohrmann.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE WILLIAMS

Dianne Rogers Bride Of George Williams

The marriage blessing ceremony of George M. Williams and Dianne Rogers was held at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael Saturday.

The Rev. James D. Riley officiated. Mr. and Mrs. Williams were married in a civil ceremony at Point Reyes in May.

The bride wore a floor length white chiffon and lace gown.

Attendants were Kerrie Ott, maid of honor, and Dolly Johnson, of Corte Madera. Both wore waltz length dresses of pale yellow and white chiffon.

Sisters of the bride, Louise and Laura Mathews, were junior attendants. They wore full-skirted white nylon over yellow dresses.

The best man was Pvt. Richard W. Horn of Ypsilanti, Mich., who is presently stationed at San Rafael. Privates Stanley Deutch and Fred Karnick were ushers.

Dianne, daughter of Mrs. Lenore Mathews of Larkspur, is attending Redwood High School.

George is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Hammons of Toledo, Ohio. Since he was graduated from Springfield High School in 1962, he has been serving with the U. S. Army.

Following the ceremony a reception was given in the parish hall.

The newlyweds left San Rafael to drive to Virginia, where the bridegroom will attend Engineers School at Fort Belvoir. They expect to visit members of their families in Colorado, Ohio, Illinois and West Virginia before returning to Marin in late autumn.

'Shades Of Autumn' Theme For Fire Auxiliary Show

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Marin County Assn. of Fire Departments will sponsor a fashion show and tea at the Larkspur Rose Bowl on Aug. 28 at 1 p.m.

"Shades of Autumn" will be the theme for the show.

Mesdames George Bartram, general chairman and Clive Coverdale, co-chairman, have announced the following committees: Mesdames Arthur Wedemeyer, Edgar Peterson, decorations; Richard Benz, refreshments; George Oliviera, publicity; Donald Denton, finance; Harold Kelly, awards; Coverdale, reservations and Wedemeyer, tea hostess.

Members of the Auxiliary who will model fashions are Mesdames Benz, Rod Biddleman, Kelly, W. Richard Meagor, George McDevitt, Oliviera, Marlen Williams and the Misses Irene Mueller and Melody Mistron. Mrs. Jeretta Russell will be commentator.

Proceeds from the affair will be used for philanthropic activities and the scholarship fund for sons and daughters of firemen at state colleges and the University of California.

Family Supper

Top hamburgers with French-fried onion rings (canned or frozen) and serve with mashed potatoes and creamed spinach for a family supper. Top the spinach with raw carrot curls for color and texture contrast.

Women Golfers Plan Luncheon

Mill Valley Women's Golf Club members and their guests will have a summer luncheon Friday starting at 12:30 p.m. at the clubhouse.

According to golf captain Mrs. John Hurley, Friday will also be the starting day for the 54-hole medal tournament, which will continue on Aug. 23 and 30.

SEW SIMPLE

A Plain Sheath Dress Can Be Transformed With Overskirt

By EUNICE FARMER

"Please tell the college girls (who are on a limited budget) how to extend our clothing wardrobe. — Shirley

Dear Shirley:

This isn't a new idea but one that many of us don't think about. It is an idea that can be used for any age and has countless possibilities.

It's almost magic, the way you can transform a simple sheath dress to one that will be romantically feminine for dates and dancing.

1. Make a separate overskirt out of embroidered organdy, chiffon, or any dreamy fabric. The skirt should be very, very full and I would make it just like a regular skirt, slide fastener closing and all.

2. Cover the waistband with a contrasting velvet ribbon and large tailored bow, or a velvet ribbon that ties in a soft bow at the front and falls in streamer ties.

This is really a double duty dress and your own imagination as to colors that are becoming to you, will make it your own original.

"I have found an easy, foolproof way of marking the spot for buttons. After the buttonholes have been made and the garment is finished, fold garment so that the two front edges are together (not lapped over the way it will be worn).

"Place a pin through the corner of each buttonhole, (the corner or end of buttonhole which is closest to the front edge of garment). Place a pin or thread mark where the pin went through to the opposite front and your buttons will be the correct distance from the finished edge of garment as well as being perfectly spaced."

Mrs. F. Gunther, Fort Worth, Tex. is this week's winner of a tailor trix pressing board.

"If you can't get a perfect match in thread and fabric, what do you do?"

—Mrs. H.T.E

Dear Mrs. H. T. E.:

With so many new colors each season, it is almost impossible to match every piece of fabric. Thread doesn't have to be an exact match for most of your stitching unless it is top-stitching that will show. Ordinarily the siled fastener is the only part of a garment where you would need a perfect match. Select a color slightly darker than your fabric because when stitched, the thread looks lighter. You can always put the slide fastener in by hand if necessary, which makes the thread almost invisible.

Mrs. C. L. H. says: When cutting slippery fabrics such as silk organza, chiffon, and taffeta, use your table pads with the felt side up. (If you don't have table pads, you may also keep fabric from slipping by laying a sheet over your table before cutting.)

"I often have trouble with the fit of a boat neckline. When the dress fits perfectly otherwise, there seems to be too much material between the sleeves so the neckline won't lie flat. I adjusted one dress by taking tucks at the neckline, but how do I cover up these unsightly alterations?"

—Mrs. E.S.

Dear Mrs. E. S.:

This is a problem many of us have. You must make a small tuck in your pattern before you cut out your garment. This tuck should not be more than one-fourth inch wide, and about three inches deep. It's always best to make a sample bodice before cutting into your good fabric if you are uncertain about the fit of any neckline.

As to correcting a neckline after the garment has been cut, you will have to try to think of some way to make this dart a decorative detail. It could be made on the right side of your fabric, perhaps making two or three smaller darts and arranging them in a sunburst design. You could also make a small embroidered arrow at the end of each dart which would also make it more decorative.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Budget Battle Starts Monday And Your Seat Is Free

Ten years ago, said an item on Thursday's I-J editorial page, Supervisor Chairman William D. Fusselman pledged that his board would "try awfully hard" to lower an indicated $2.56 tax rate of the preliminary budget.

Checking the records as this year's first day of preliminary budget approaches, Monday to be precise, Auditor-Controller Mike Mitchell reports that the awful hard try was pretty successful since the final figure was an even two dollars.

Supervisor Peter Behr is the board member loudest in demand for a "hard try" this year. He alone refused to vote for the budget as passed first time around, and he was brutally plain as to why. Just too high, said he.

Mitchell's latest figures show that the presently indicated rate has already come down to $2.30 due to adjustments relating to the state primarily. But it can't be too often repeated that this figure is deceptive and more or less fictitious. Actually for the past five years the final rate has been around this level, but the take goes up fast as valuations rise.

Actually we've been on a merry-go-round according to Mitchell. For the 1953-54 fiscal year the tax raised five and one-quarter million dollars on a 102-million assessed value; for the current year 14¼ million dollars was raised on a 332-million value. Three times the income from three times the property value with a tax rate pretty much unaltered.

What Mr. John Q. Taxpayer would like, in case this isn't clear to all, is a much lower tax rate to meet a reduced budget from a much higher county property value. But it will take a deal of doing.

Best potential victim is always the roads budget. A couple of cents will come out of that without pain if the county fair road to Terra Linda isn't built, and that will be all right with some of the property owners. There's a West Marin bridge we might not build, and unquestionably further road adjustments can be made amidst screams from Don Frost. As Marv Brigham so well put it, "There never is enough money for roads, no matter how much."

Some additional cost may be incurred through use of Short-Doyle at last for a mental health program. But the benefits will be unquestioned and great.

Welfare, another big budget with much state and federal contribution, is considered in good shape. That "promotion and development" budget bugs some people but its biggest items are easiest justified.

Behr has an idea, just the same. We suspect new Supervisor Byron W. Leydecker shares it. Our information is that there will be some public representation in the taxpayer's interest and it will be welcomed. Costs not a penny for the best seats.

Bouquets And Brickbats

A BRICKBAT to Reed School District trustees for rejecting such a sound, colorful name as "Skunk Hollow." The state which has changed all too many picturesque names might well look to Marin County for more spunk in sturdy nomenclature.

A BOUQUET, toward which we expect no contribution from George Ludy, to Inverness stair-climbers who anyhow knew what they wanted and it wasn't that "gestapo fence."

A BOUQUET to county ag commissioner Dick Straw for volunteering to work up a report on all insecticides and pesticides available in Marin County, containing many avid readers of Rachel Carson warnings on menace to fish, birds and insects.

A BRICKBAT to that San Rafael mama who got her hand caught in the kids' piggie-bank.

A BOUQUET to young Pat and Rob Robertson of Sausalito, who emptied a defective parking lot coin meter to turn its contents in to police.

A BOUQUET to freshman Supervisor Leydecker for complaining about waste of time in board meetings—agenda procedure is overdue for overhaul. But supervisors will have to do home work instead of relying on clerk's reading for their information.

Fewer Babies Born At Cocktail Hour Than Any Other Time

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Babies are thoughtful little critters. Fewer are born during the cocktail hour than at any other time of the day or night.

Compliment: The greatest praise an oldtime cowboy could give a fellow saddle tramp was to say to him: "He is someone you can ride the river with."

IT TAKES an office secretary 15 more calories an hour to work a manual typewriter than an electric one.

Bragging takes energy. An Australian veterinarian insists that hens would lay more eggs if they could be made to stop clucking.

What is your favorite color? Experts say they rank in popularity in this order: blue, red, green, orange, violet and yellow.

But if this is true, why do so many men going to work look like pieces of dressed-up charcoal?

LEGAL MILESTONES you may have missed: A Colorado court ruled that a telephone booth is a building. In Barre, Vt., an interesting old law required everyone to take a bath on Saturday — whether he needed it or not.

Our quotable notables: "The man who is always worrying about whether or not his soul would be damned generally has a soul that isn't worth a damn."—Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Swat him on sight: Of 625,000 known insects—some two to four million kinds are still unclassified—the common housefly is regarded as probably the most dangerous to man.

HEALTH NOTE: In the United States only one out of 10,000 who get measles die of it. In Africa, one out of two die.

Unique village: The community of Gildersleeve, Alaska, is built on 17 log rafts, which are towed from place to place when logging is to be done.

Unemployment is strictly a human problem at present. The number of jobs for performing animals has increased 600 per cent since 1950.

It was William Hazlitt who observed, "If mankind had wished for what is right, they might have had it long ago."

THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

WHEN YOU ARE TREATED RUDELY

A train conductor strongly reprimanded James Whitcomb Riley, the beloved American poet, for breaking a minor passenger rule one day.

"Aren't you going to answer him back?" inquired Riley's traveling companion. "At least you'll report him to the company, won't you?"

"No," Riley replied. "As far as I am concerned, the matter is settled. If that unpleasant individual can stand himself all his life. I guess I can put up with him for a few minutes.

At one time or another we all have to deal with people we consider unpleasant. You will render a great service if you blend Christ-like kindness with firmness in your treatment of those who are discourteous or rude towards you.

"Bear with one another and forgive one another, if anyone has a grievance against any other, even as the Lord has forgiven you, so also do you forgive."
(Colossians 3:13)

Help me to be patient when others try my patience, O Lord.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Demonstrations Ask Justice

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Your editorial cartoon of Aug. 1 states baldly that civil rights demonstrators are demanding an instant perfect world. I'm sure this concept comforts the conservative burghers of Marin, who find the untidy marchers annoying. This view is false!

The I-J could contribute to community welfare if it emphasized the legitimacy of the minimum justice, long delayed, which has now come due. The "revolution of expectations" will not go away if we refuse to see it.

Mr. Manning desires a stall on the justified redress of grievances by condemning the forceful action which alone can give the present generation of Negroes the feeling that they are truly Americans. How far did the "gradual process" of "Education and Understanding" go to achieve equal constitutional rights in the last one hundred years?

The irrepressible voice from "the heart of a people" —oppressed too long and unseen too long—cannot be prettied up to please all elements of "the master race." Mr. Manning would do well to join history or step aside lest it roll over him.

"Q." Curriculum Is Better

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I direct your attention to the specious reasoning employed by the Marin County Board of Education and Tamalpais District Supt. Chester Carlisle in denying West Marin students inter-district agreements and the right to attend better schools.

". . . these students may help Tomales High School," said board member James Carroll. Since when is it the responsibility of four students to improve a school?

Are those four students going to bring better teachers to Tomales High School? Will four students improve a shallow curriculum—shallow because of an irresponsible electorate and an enrollment one-third less than the minimum recommended for a high school? Will those four students bring a work experience program and adequate counseling facilities to that school? Will they make it earthquake proof? Will they reduce the fire hazard?

It's quite a philosophy of education that places that responsibility on four students, 13 to 15 years of age!

In a burst of generosity, Superintendent Carlisle suggested that Tamalpais Schools "won't have any room for transfer students unless it was demonstrated they cannot get comparable courses elsewhere." And "comparable" seemed to cover every course mentioned, even ones that Tomales completely lacks.

Four years of Latin? (One boy wants to go to Harvard.) Oh, heck, he can take a poorly taught two year course in French or Spanish at Tomales and go to Cal! As far as that goes, he could skip languages altogether and go to one of the few remaining colleges which do not have language requirements.

Ironically, parents who attended that county board meeting were treated to a lengthy discussion of the San Quentin Prison high school curriculum. The parents listened with envy; for the prison curriculum, exclusively for inmates, is worthy of highest praise. It could be that these children might benefit from being treated as criminals, rather than sacrificial lambs.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By RICHARD LYTTLE

Pity The Poor Wight To Whom Your Vacation Is Work

YE EDITOR, with a wrinkle in his normally clear brow, has decreed that he will accept no more contributions to the Notebook column about vacations.

"Particularly," warns he, "do not start off by saying, 'By the time you read this, I will be miles away, dreaming under the pines'."

This hits our Ivory Tower inmate the wrong way because his vacation is over. (May take another—EDITOR.) It hits me the wrong way because MY vacation is over.

It is painful to see others in happy anticipation of freedom.

BUT THERE are some I dislike seeing getting ready for vacations more than others. These are the staff members who must have someone sitting at their desks, answering phones and wearing down their erasers while they are away. Somehow it must be, if the paper is going to get out.

The trouble is that you never know what is involved until you are the one named to sit at their desks.

I dislike sitting at another person's desk for many reasons. One of the biggest reasons is that it does not feel comfortable.

The back of the chair bruises the small of your back, the typewriter is stiff and spells badly and the drawers stick. I don't like opening another man's desk drawers, but sometimes you must to find a match to light your pipe, or a paper clip to clean it.

AND ALL THE TIME you are searching in the secreted mass of papers and notes there is that faint feeling of fear—the feeling that your man might suddenly return from his vacation and appear standing over you with his arms akimbo saying, "Well?"

The fellows I have replaced always wear their responsibility with deceptive calm. The moment they leave, however, the whole system crashes down with a thud and the weight of the job seems impossible.

Vital and pressing messages begin piling up. The job becomes a tangle on the first day, a nightmare on the second day and a black horror thereafter. By the end of the first week, your only hope is a speedy end to your man's vacation.

DON KEOWN, who puts out the weekly Marin Magazine each Saturday with no apparent fuss or flurry, was very helpful explaining the job before he left.

But after the first hour at his desk alone I was badly bruised by incoming mail. The mail from the television networks was particularly heavy, something I did not at first understand.

One of Don's jobs is putting out the television log. It is a job everyone takes seriously, particularly the networks. They supply a thick schedule of their programs about two weeks in advance. As soon as it arrives, the corrections and changes start coming in. The mail stacks up at a furious pace.

Not knowing what was involved and not realizing just how serious the whole business was, I piled the correspondence against one wall of the office and ignored it until the day before deadline. That resulted in a night-long session, lasting long after the late-late show.

WHEN Bryce W. Anderson leaves the city desk for just a few minutes, the newsroom begins to wallow like a rudderless bucket. Putting things back on course when he is out of town is great fun, something like the tunnel of horrors. There is a new surprise at every turn.

I don't really begrudge anyone his vacation. But I am always one of the first to say, "Hurry back."

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

After Test Ban Treaty Signing What Will Be Next Business?

WASHINGTON—Every diplomat who participated in the signing of the nuclear test ban agreed on one thing: that its primary significance is not what it contains, but what it can lead to.

Premier Khrushchev and Andrei Gromyko, Dean Rusk and Lord Home—all of them —stressed the view that the test ban is a modest and minute beginning, that its potential will only be visible in the "next steps."

Secretary Rusk went out of his way to underline that the treaty does not end the threat of nuclear war, does not reduce nuclear stockpiles, does not halt the production of nuclear weapons.

He appealed to the Soviet Union to maintain the "forward momentum" in order to deal with "unfinished business of peace."

ON THE ASSUMPTION that the limited test ban is a welcome and worthy act, it seems to me that the questions which must be urgently asked—and carefully answered—are these:

What are the "next steps" now in the offing?

What are the dangers that the Soviets will use them to our disadvantage?

What can we do to avert these dangers and to use the opportunities now in our hands to deal constructively with the "unfinished business of peace"?

TO START answering these questions, we need to be as clear as possible about why the Soviet Union, after long opposing such a test ban, suddenly decided to accept it. The visible reasons are innocent enough — and understandable.

Khrushchev wants to reduce the crushing costs of nuclear armaments in order to divert capital to other parts of the Soviet economy; he is worried over Red China; he doesn't want nuclear war; he sees rising unrest in Eastern Europe.

But there is an additional reason and this, it seems to me, is both danger and warning. It is not an argument against the treaty; it is a warning to be sure that the aftermath of the treaty is not turned against us.

Judging from all past Soviet policy and purpose, we must assume that the Kremlin aims to use the mellow atmosphere it is seeking to create in the wake of the test ban to weaken the West.

Khrushchev is intent upon using the euphoric aftermath of the test ban to get the West —and particularly the United States—to swallow a massive tranquilizer. At Khrushchev's Kremlin reception, his orchestra subtly played Gershwin's "Love Walks In."

AND NO WONDER. He shrinks from the prospect of fighting a two-front cold war against Red China in Asia and elsewhere and the cold war against the West.

HUNGER GIRDLES GLOBE –PROBABLY GET WORSE

U.N. Group Shows Problem In Two Dramatic Reports

By JAMES M. LONG

ROME (AP)—One half of all humanity today suffers either outright hunger or weakening malnutrition, the U.N. Food and Agricultural Organization (FAO) reports.

And this situation probably will become worse.

The problem is shown in statistical charts of two dramatic FAO reports, "The Statistics of Hunger" and "Six Billions to Feed." It is simply this:

It took tens of thousands of years from the dawn of man until 1830 for the world's population to reach one billion. It took only 100 years, from 1930 to 1960, to reach the present three billion. And in the mere 40 years from now to the end of this century that population will double, to reach six billions; from then on population will skyrocket by increasing multiples.

Yet there is on earth only about 12.5 acres of land for every man, woman and child living today.

Of this only 1.1 acres per person is presently cultivated, and FAO estimates that 2.65 more acres per person could possibly be used to produce food. That would be little more than three acres per person at maximum.

FAO says that of the rest of the approximately 12.5 acres per person, 2.5 are too arid, 1.25 acres have inadequate soil, 2.5 acres are too cold, and 2.5 acres are too mountainous.

Thus if the maximum cultivation could be achieved in the next 40 years, there still would be only an acre and a half per person with the population doubled to six billion.

From then on the food producing lands per person would shrink at the same tremendous rate as the increasingly rapid doubling of population.

The FAO surveys showed that world food production must be doubled by the year 2,000 to maintain even the present inadequate nourishment.

FAO said that with the present three million population, 300 to 500 million people suffer outright hunger and up to one half of the world's total population suffers malnutrition.

Hunger means simply not enough to eat. Malnutrition means a sufficient quantity, but of foods inadequate to supply the necessary energy or health.

FAO's charts did not show the specific geographic boundaries of outright hunger. Hunger exists scattered throughout the widespread areas of undernourishment.

Over 2,700 calories per day per person (adequate diets): the United States and Canada: Argentina and Hungary; Britain, Scandinavia, North, Central and most of Eastern Europe including European Russia; Turkey and Israel.

Over 2,200 calories (marginal diets): Mexico, part of Central America; Brazil, parts of southwestern South America; Spain and Italy; most of Africa, Lebanon and Japan.

Under 2,000 calories (lands of undernourishment and hunger): Part of Central America, northern and northwestern South America, parts of Africa, most of the Middle East and almost all of Asia.

Another chart showing a second phase of the distribution of malnutrition is based on daily per person consumption of animal protein.

Less of western South America suffers from a daily per person animal protein intake of below 15 grams. More than half of Africa has less than 15 grams a day per person of animal proteins. Most of the Balkans is in a borderline bracket with Italy and Spain and parts of Eastern Europe having more than 15 grams but less than 30. All the Middle East except Israel and all Asia except Japan and Vietnam are in the malnutrition range below 15 grams. Vietnam and Japan are in the borderline group of under 30 grams.

An FAO summary says in general calorie supplies in North America, Europe and Australia and New Zealand exceed requirements by 20 per cent. In Near East, Africa and Latin America they are "about equal" to requirements. In the Far East supplies fall short of requirements by 11 per cent.

HOPES HIGH

'Hot Line' Might Avert Atomic War

By DONALD H. MAY

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Diplomats here hope that a ridiculously small expenditure the United States is now making—around $32,000—will some day avert nuclear war.

This is about what it will cost the U. S. government to install its half of the so-called "hot line" between Washington and Moscow, which will open soon, perhaps by Sept. 1.

The line will put President John F. Kennedy and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in almost instant communication. It is to be used only in times of grave crisis, to avoid misunderstanding which could lead to war.

The need for it became starkly apparent during last October's crisis over Soviet missiles in Cuba. With their defense establishments on nuclear alert, both leaders found they could not exchange messages fast enough through the usual diplomatic channels.

Both at times resorted to saying what they had to say in public statements to be transmitted by news agencies. At one point Defense Department sent instructions to U.S. fleet units in the Caribbean "en clair" — that is, without using codes — so Russia would not misinterpret movements of vessels.

The story is told of one, relatively small message sent from Washington to Moscow during the crisis. It was drafted at the State Department late at night, and a diplomatic official set out in a car to take it to the Soviet Embassy.

When he arrived the building was dark, and no one answered his knock. With visions of perhaps serious misunderstanding following if the message were not delivered, the official banged repeatedly on the door in the darkness. Finally someone answered and the message was dispatched to Moscow.

The hot line—called "hot" because the circuit will always be open—will be a commercial cable link running from Washington through London, Copenhagen, Stockholm and Helsinki to Moscow.

At each end will be teleprinter machines equipped with devices for automatic encoding and decoding.

U.S.-Soviet negotiators considered making it a telephone circuit but rejected this on grounds voice messages might be more open to misunderstanding than written ones.

The coding system will use perforated tapes on which various groupings of punched holes represent letters. The United States will have a supply of master, each with a different code. Russia will have an identical set. Each pair of master tapes will be used only for one message and then destroyed.

In addition to the land circuit there will be a separate radio telegraph circuit running from Washington to Tangier to Moscow. This will be used for service communications and as a back-stop in case the main system fails.

The U.S. hot line terminal will be in the Pentagon's communication center. If Khrushchev sends a message the first signal will be a ringing of bells, much like those which tell a newspaper editor a news wire bulletin is about to move.

Moscow to Washington messages will be in Russian; Washington to Moscow messages in English. Each side will have translators on hand. U.S. officials estimate that, including translation time, a short message could be flashed to President Kennedy, wherever he is, within minutes.

The origins of the hot line are somewhat foggy.

It apparently was first formally proposed by the United States to the Russians as one part of an April 18, 1962, U.S. general disarmament plan. The Russians incorporated the idea in a Soviet general disarmament plan July 16, 1962.

The idea lay more or less dormant among other proposals to reduce the "risk of war" until after the Cuban crisis when the United States again pressed for it.

Last April Soviet disarmament negotiators at Geneva accepted it in principle.

Technical talks were held and the hot line agreement was signed between the United States and Russia in Geneva June 20.

U.S., German Troops Train Side By Side

By GEORGE WEEKS

MUNICH, Germany (UPI) — "These guys are just like most of us — they want to serve their time and get out."

That was an American GI talking. The "guys" he was referring to were Germans, members of the grenadier, panzer, mountain and airborne divisions which are now partners in safeguarding the peace with the United States and other NATO soldiers.

Today, West Germany's 28,000-man navy helps protect the NATO flanks in the North Sea and the Baltic. Its air force is a vital link in NATO defenses. And the army, the real German bulwark, has more than 240,000 men, with a planned peak strength of 12 divisions.

On the 20th anniversary of the American Army's entry into Western Europe, the inevitable question still comes up about the wisdom of the rebirth of military forces which once terrorized Europe.

An armed forces booklet of the federal German government has this to say:

"The experience of the recent past has rendered the German people immune to the danger of seeing the new army as anything but a genuine defense instrument. . . . The soldier's position within the social structure of the nation has changed from what it used to be in former times. . . . The new army is being built up under the handicap—which is also a blessing — of starting from scratch."

More blunt was an American two-star general: "You can say what you want to about the revival of the German military, but we're damned lucky to have them on our side this time," he said. "NATO would be lost without them."

Added a U.S. officer who once fought against the Germans and now helps train them: "They're not sharp in the sense that the heel-clickers of old were. I wouldn't be surprised to see the goosestep come back some day — but never with that same motivation they had before."

One of the most qualified judges of the German armed forces today is Lt. Gen. Hugh P. Harris, commander of the U.S. Seventh Army, which has within its ranks two German corps for NATO operations. Harris, who monitors German training, said the Germany army is good tactically but weak logistically. Much needs to be done in building its support units, he said.

More than 1,500 crack U.S. and German troops under Harris paraded shoulder to shoulder together in Stuttgart last month at ceremonies marking the 20th anniversary of the Seventh Army, which was formed at sea to fight Germans.

Americans and Germans train together daily, a situation unique in the military history of both nations. After participating in an exercise with German soldiers, Lt. George Joulwan, a U.S. infantry company commander, said he was "overwhelmed by their interest and efficiency."

U.S. Ambassador to West Germany George C. McGhee, after watching German and American troops march together, said it was "heartening" to see former enemies training for common defense.

Of the West German air force, a low-flying U.S. Army pilot, after pulling his single-engine craft out of a sudden dive to avoid two German jets approaching on a collision course, told a frightened passenger:

"You have to watch out for these German flyabouts. They like to buzz castles and television towers. They give our control tower the fits."

The air force is rebuilding in dramatic and sometimes startling fashion. Maj. Gen. W. A. Cunningham, commanding general of the U.S. 24th Division, was unable to get U.S. Air Force planes for a training exercise, so he called upon the German air force for napalm drops 400 yards ahead of the advancing troops. "The German pilots were beautifully accurate," Cunningham said. "It was a good example of real allied cooperation."

One handicap facing the German air force is a shortage of adequate air space. It lacks facilities for aerial live-fire exercises, and the air space already is crowded with military and commercial traffic.

Limited air space was a factor in the recent agreement giving the U.S. Air Force responsibility for training West German pilots at Luke Air Force Base in Arizona to fly the supersonic F-104G Starfighter. American instructors and German students already are flying together in Europe.

Mindszenty Agreement Seen Soon

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Pope Paul VI told Hungarians yesterday that "we expect good news about the Catholic Church from inside your frontiers and we are swelling with hope in the prospect."

His message, a special invitation to Hungarian bishops to attend the second session of the Ecumenical Council opening Sept. 29 in Rome, was taken as an indication that an agreement is near between the Vatican and Hungary's Communist regime to free Josef Cardinal Mindszenty and ease the Roman Catholic Church's situation in Hungary.

The Cardinal has lived in self-imposed refuge in the U.S. legation since the 1956 Hungarian uprising.

The Hungarian government has not lifted his life sentence on charges of espionage and treason, and the prelate in the past has refused to leave Hungary unless he was vindicated.

Pope John XXIII before his death was reported urging the cardinal to come to Rome.

THIS WEEK In The World

First Step Taken Toward Peace

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Delegates from nations great and small, East and West, took a step this week toward replacing the nuclear genie in its bottle.

An agreement signed by Russia, the United States and Britain in Moscow on Monday, banning nuclear tests in space, the atmosphere and under water, was signed by more than three dozen other nations in Moscow, Washington and London.

The only two nations of note which said they would not sign were France and Communist China, the former already a nuclear nation, and the latter probably on the threshhold of attaining nuclear capabilities.

Still pending was the "advice and consent" of the U.S. Senate to the treaty.

Around The World Around The Clock

Boston—President John F. Kennedy's newborn son Patrick Bouvier Kennedy, delivered five and one-half weeks prematurely, died at 4:04 a.m. yesterday, only 39 hours after his birth.

Haiti—An invasion force of about 300 exiles which struck at the northern shore of Haiti was dispersed by President Francois Duvalier's government forces. The Haitian embassy in Washington said several exiles had been killed, and Haitian officials charged that the attack had been prepared in the Dominican Republic.

The Great Train Robbery—Estimates of the loot taken by robbers from a British mail train went over seven million dollars. A masked gang, working with precision and speed, waylaid the train early Thursday near Chittendon and departed with the fortune before 75 postal workers in the rear of the train knew what had happened.

Military Pay—Congress neared completion of action on a military pay bill which would provide more than 1.2 billion dollars a year in raises.

Mutual Funds—A Securities and Exchange Commission report recommended the outlawing of contractual mutual funds in which fast-talking salesmen victimize small-income investors who can ill afford it.

Taxes—The Internal Revenue Service reported that federal tax collections for fiscal year 1963-64 passed 100 billion dollars for the first time. This reflected a large increase in personal income. Meanwhile, the House Ways and Means Committee tentatively agreed on a formula for cutting taxes by 10 billion dollars in 1964-65.

When Is A Boat A Boat —And When A House?

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—When is a boat, and when is it a house?

This profound question was answered this week by Atty. Gen Stanley Mosk in an opinion handed down to Warren Shannon, state director of fish and game.

If a houseboat is adaptable for habitation, and is used as such, either permanently or temporarily, it is a dwelling within the meaning of fish and game code Sec. 1006, the attorney general said.

But a houseboat is a boat within the meaning of Sec. 8670, and does not lose its identity as a boat when it is grounded by low tide.

The opinion said the legislature intended to prohibit on all types of boats the possession of nets which could be used illegally in tidal waters upstream from Carquinez Bridge.

Some poachers, it seems, were towing houseboats into the Grizzly Bay area, beaching them in the tules, and then engaging in net fishing in the middle of the night, then stating the boats were for recreation, sport fishing and duck hunting bases.

But, the department of fish and game found, some of the boats were occupied only on nights when illegal netting occurred.

In any event, Shannon wants to stop the illegal practice, and the opinion will give him some assistance.

670 boys get a firm grip on the future

BOYS EARN POINTS, redeemable in merchandise at some 100 merchants in Marin. Another incentive to good service.

BOYS FIND SAVING EASIER through a special I-J Savings Program. Newspaperboy banks are given youngsters who open a savings account at leading Marin financial institutions.

SPECIAL PRIZES go to carrier boys for doing an outstanding job. All part of the I-J program for rewarding personal enterprise.

MAJOR HOLIDAY TRIPS (this one to Disneyland) are offered boys who qualify through service and business ability. It's amazing how many make the grade—and the plane.

Under the I-J's well-rounded program, newspaperboys gain a sense of direction and initiative. They find incentive to save, earn many a reward in trips and fun.

I-J carrier boys don't just pick up their papers and deliver them. They become part of an organized program aimed at developing the boys themselves.

They learn business-like procedures. They learn personal initiative. They are encouraged to save through a special savings program—first of its kind in the U.S. for newspaperboys, and pioneered by the Independent-Journal.

For good service they earn "points" over and above their route profits . . . good for merchandise at some 100 cooperating Marin merchants—another I-J "first."

They find countless incentives, too, in prizes, trips, sports events. They see the Giants, go to Disneyland, even Seattle. Always under the guiding eye of our experienced Circulation Staff.

Result: our "afternoon army" of 670 boys ride in the right direction. Some are saving for college. Many are building bank accounts. And all are finding that initiative and personal enterprise gives them a mighty firm grip on the handlebars of success.

Next time "your" boy delivers the I-J, look him over. He's on his way . . . to being a man.

WINNING BRIDGE

Let Your Opponent Push When You're Pushable In Bridge Game

When you have unusual distributional strength it's wise to remember that the opponents may be able to make a high contract of their own.

If you bid your own best contract too confidently you may not be able to buy the hand.

Opening lead — ♡ K

As soon as North bid two spades, showing trump support in a weak hand, South wanted to play the hand at four spades.

BELONGED

But South realized that the hand "belonged" to the opponents for a pretty high number of hearts or, possibly, diamonds.

If South jumped to four spades at his second turn, the opponents might keep bidding hearts.

South might wind up collecting 200 points instead of a game; and if the opponents had a good fit, they might even be able to make four or five hearts.

GOES SLOW

Instead of jumping to four spades South made the tactical underbid of three spades.

He felt sure that one of the opponents would be willing to make a further bid, and he was right.

When West bid four hearts, and South ran out of the double to four spades, it looked for all the world as though South was caught in the switches.

DOUBLED

West doubled on the theory that his partner had good trumps and that his double might confuse declarer.

It was all very deceptive, but South was neither deceived nor terrified.

He made eleven tricks very easily.

If he had bid the hand less adroitly, East might have wound up making five hearts doubled.

Today is Saturday, Aug. 10, the 222nd day of 1963 with 143 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last phase. The morning stars are Jupiter and Saturn. The evening stars are Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1776, a committee of Benjamin Franklin, John Adams and Thomas Jefferson suggested the United States adopt "E Pluribus Unum" as the motto for its great seal.

In 1943, President Franklin Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill met at Quebec for their sixth conference of World War II.

What Makes A Relief Pitcher? It Isn't Talent Of Bolin And Duffalo

CONNOLLY

"What is your definition of a relief pitcher?"

That query comes from a Marinite, a fellow who has not only played semi-pro ball but who was denied a chance to try for a big league job by a devoted wife who figured being married to a professional ball player was akin to high diving in a wading pool.

It isn't necessary for a relief pitcher to be an oldtimer. All he needs is to be a fellow who knows the various hitters, whether their taste is for the fast ball, the curve or the change up?

RELIEF pitchers must have control—they need early speed. They can't be guys who need one or two innings to get going. They have to pitch from the start.

A relief pitcher is best described by an "old fran" who once told me—"a relief pitcher is a guy, who, if his jugular vein is severed, sheds ice water."

Relief pitchers, for the most part, are guys who once were tops in their profession. They either had a helluva curve ball, a terrific fast ball or a puzzling change of pace.

ONE OF their best pitches left them, so without the combination, the manager decides they can get by as a reliever, on experience alone.

But today the idea of a relief pitcher has completely changed.

The new breed of a relief pitcher is a fellow who gets on fire for a few innings. He is a guy who owns good control, knows his hitter and has plenty of the old moxie . . . courage.

So if you were a manager, would you take a young, promising fireballer and delegate him to a relief job; or would you decide that the kid deserves a better fate and make him a regular starter.

ALVIN Dark, Giant manager, has that problem. He knows he hasn't enough starting pitchers. So he looks around and decides that it is better to have one good fireballer in the bullpen who can step in and strike out hitters.

Alvin isn't concerned with whether the young pitcher he picks as a reliever is good enough to be a starter. He just knows that the guy is good enough to make a good reliever. So he makes his choice.

But I ask you, if the young relief pitcher happened to be Alvin Dark's boy, do you suppose he would select him as a relief guy? I say no. The manager would want his own son to be a starter . . . not a fireman to put out the fires of other guys and never get a peak salary.

JIM DUFFALO of the Giants is capable of being a starting pitcher on most clubs in the National League. He showed that last Tuesday.

Bob Bolin, another young fireballer, has earned the right to be a starter. Yet, with these two youngsters on the staff, Alvin tried his luck with Gaylord Perry and Jack Fisher, neither of whom can rate alongside of Duffalo or Bolin. Both are today relievers and Perry has been farmed out.

I say it isn't fair trade. I prefer to run the game on a basis of first come, first served. But it hasn't been that way for either Bolin or Duffalo.

MAYBE MY opinion of Bolin and Duffalo doesn't conform with the opinion of the head man. Then why, and I ask why, don't the Giants allow these two young, promising pitchers to get a chance with another club?

Nobody is going to tell me that Bolin was signed for $80,000 to be a relief pitcher. Neither was Jim Duffalo. They signed them to pitch, regularly, not to backstop slipping veterans.

So to answer my Marinite friend I have to say that a relief pitcher should be an older, experienced pitcher who is being paid for what he knows, and not for what he does.

Giants Narrow Gap In N.L. Race

Independent-Journal Sports

10 Saturday, Aug. 10, 1963

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — During the San Francisco Giants spring training sessions, manager Alvin Dark commented that Juan Marichal could be the winningest pitcher in the major leagues this year.

Apparently Marichal is out to prove his manager a good prophet. He won his 18th game of the season last night, shutting out the Philadelphia Phils 4-0.

It took Juan three starts to gain his 18th decision and at times he was on the spot as the Phils left runners on base in all but one inning. He kept seven hits well scattered.

The Giants also garnered seven hits off Ray Culp and Jack Baldschun but they got them when they counted. Culp gave up only one run and Baldschun was tagged for the other three, after he took over in the eighth inning.

Willie McCovey banged a 425 foot triple to center in the fourth and scored on Orlando Cepeda's single. Cepeda was the batting star of the evening, driving in three runs and scoring the other.

The Giants' and Marichal's closest call came in the ninth inning when the Phils got two on with none out. Clay Dalrymple ripped a ball over the fence which was foul by an inch or two. He then hit into a force play and Don Hoak lined into a double play to end the contest and preserve Marichal's shutout.

The victory left the Giants 4½ games back of Los Angeles, which was upended by the Cincinnati Reds last night. St. Louis also lost, giving the Giants a two game edge over the Cardinals and four and a half over slipping Chicago, which lost to the New York Mets. The two-team battle of 1962 is taking shape again.

Billy O'Dell was scheduled to take the mound today against Dennis Bennett of the Phils.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

Grand Slam Ends Craig's Nightmare, Mets Win 7-3

By Associated Press

A combination of knitting, hitting and hexing did the job for Roger Craig.

Roger's missus tended to her nervous knitting, Jim Hickman tended to the hitting and Manager Casey Stengel tended to the hexing. The end result was enough to have Craig chortling:

"It's over. Oh, man, it's over."

That was the veteran right-hander's grateful comment last night after the New York Mets had pulled out a 7-3 victory over Chicago in the last of the ninth, snapping Craig's personal 18-game losing streak that stretched back to April 29. The streak equaled the National League record and was within one of the major league mark of 19.

To escape that dubious record, Craig traded his regular uniform number 38 for No. 13.

His biggest assist came from Hickman, who hit a grand slam homer on a 3-2 pitch with the score tied and two men out in the bottom of the ninth.

Casey got his hand in, too. When Cub relief pitcher Lindy McDaniel was winding up for the climactic 3-2 pitch, Ol' Case gestured wildly in the Met dugout, waving his crossed fingers at the pitcher in the classic baseball sign of "putting on the hex."

And while it was all going on Mrs. Craig sat in the stands, nervously knitting away at a furious rate.

"I knew I couldn't sit still," she said. "I had to have something to occupy me. So I brought my knitting along."

Elsewhere, Cincinnati chased in five unearned runs and beat the first place Los Angeles Dodgers 8-4 while second-place San Francisco blanked Philadelphia 4-0, cutting the Dodger margin to 4½ games. Milwaukee beat St. Louis 6-3 and Pittsburgh and Houston spilt a doubleheader that lasted more than 7½ hours and ended at 2:30 a.m. Pittsburgh time. The Pirates won the second game, 7-6 in 11 innings after Houston had won 7-6 in 15.

In the American League, the New York Yankees edged Los Angeles 1-0 while the second-place Chicago White Sox split a pair with Detroit, winning the first 2-1 and losing the second 3-1 in 10 innings. Baltimore bombed Washington 7-1, Kansas City beat Cleveland 5-1 and Minnesota drubbed Boston 5-3.

Griffith, Mims In TV Battle

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y. (AP) — Welterweight champion Emile Griffith, only 24, is a 2-1 favorite over veteran middleweight Holly Mims, 34, of Washington, for their television, non-title 10-rounder at Convention Hall tonight.

ABC-TV will beam the fight nationally, starting at 7 p.m., DST.

In case you're wondering why they are fighting in this august horse racing center, the answer is that the fisticuffing is part of Saratoga's thoroughbred racing centennial celebration. Both fighters have been warned not to get too racing conscious and that the rule against putting horseshoes in gloves still holds.

With or without horseshoes, the muscular king of the 147-pounders figures to have too much zip for the aging, one-time middleweight contender.

Griffith, now in his third reign as ruler of the welters—and he's only a baby—has a 36-4 record. Mims, who is rated just an "opponent" these days, is 57-23-6.

Butts Denies 'Rig' Charges

ATLANTA (AP)—Wally Butts, former athletic director at Georgia, climaxed the first week of his 10-million-dollar libel trial with repeated denials of charges that he helped rig last year's Georgia-Alabama football game.

Butts, 58, who will return to the stand next week, testified yesterday he never betrayed his school and denied any knowledge of alleged gambling activities of two friends.

On the stand for about three hours, Butts denied charges in a March issue of the Saturday Evening Post which said he gave inside information on Georgia's team to coach Paul (Bear) Bryant of Alabama.

His suit against Curtis Publishing Co., owner of the Post, resulted from publication of the article and accompanying editorial notes.

Attorney William H. Schroder said Butts might resume testimony Monday.

But Schroder said he intended to call former Georgia coach and player Charley Trippi, a St. Louis Cardinals coach, and professional player Lee Roy Jordan, All-America center at Alabama last season.

DIDN'T KNOW

Butts testified he did not know what Georgia's game plan was for the encounter with Alabama last year. Alabama won, 35-0.

He said he had tipped off a Georgia defensive coach that Alabama probably would stress a certain formation. Errors by Georgia's sophomore players were costly in that game, he said.

Diagramming one Alabama touchdown play on a blackboard, Butts said:

"That is an easy touchdown. There's not any way that could be arranged because I was up in the press box."

EASY TOUCHDOWNS

Alabama, Butts told the jury, "got some easy touchdowns."

"Were you or were you not familiar with the University of Georgia game plan?" he was asked.

"No. And I would like to enlarge on that. I have never seen a game plan since I resigned as head coach at the end of the 1960 season."

"Did you know what formations Georgia had planned to use?"

"No."

"And I would like to add that I was amazed and surprised they didn't do some of the things they do well."

"Did you know anything about what plays Georgia planned to use?"

"The answer is no."

Oilers Blank Jets, 17-0; Chiefs Win

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York American Football League club has a new name, a new owner, a new coach, and a considerably shuffled roster. Only the result remains the same.

The Jets, making their new-name, new-look debut under Coach Weeb Ewbank, took a 17-0 lacing from the Houston Oilers last night at Shreveport, La., in one of two exhibition games on the pro football schedule. While the Jets were acting like the old Titans, the defending AFL champions, now the Kansas City Chiefs, whipped the Buffalo Bills 17-13 in the other game.

Ten of the 14 National Football League teams swing into action today in one day game and four night games. The American League winds up its second weekend of exhibitions with Boston at San Diego today and Denver at Oakland Sunday.

Fans will be paying special attention to the Green Bay Packers in their Miami game with the Pittsburgh Steelers to see how the Packers react from their upset by the College All-Stars last week. With Ray Nitschke back in action and another week of practice, the Packers are expected to show vast improvement. It will be Buddy Parker's first look at his new Steelers under fire. Among Parker's problems are finding the right replacement for the late Daddy Lipscomb.

Women Tennis Stars Go After Wightman Cup

CLEVELAND (AP)—The United States and Great Britain squared off today in the 35th battle for the prized silver Wightman Cup, emblem of supremacy in women's tennis.

The U.S. rates a slight favorite to retain the cup it has won 28 times, including last year's 4-3 victory at Wimbledon. Familiarity with the clay courts at the Cleveland Skating Club was cited as a favoring factor for the American women, who haven't lost the cup on their soil since 1925. Great Britain has won six times.

The first three matches — two singles and a doubles — will be played today. Three singles and a doubles match tomorrow will complete the competition.

Pelicans To Battle

It will be either Mike Wyman or Jack Brewer on the mound for the Tiburon Pelicans tomorrow when they take on the Santa Clara Merchants at Judge Field in Tiburon at 2 p.m.

TENNIS EXHIBITION — Frank Kovacs (above), former national tennis champion, and Gene Ward, 10th ranked amateur in the U. S., will stage a tennis exhibition match tomorrow at the Belvedere Tennis Club from 1 to 3 p.m. Kovacs was the 1946 Professional Men's Doubles champ and was the U. S. indoor tennis champ in 1941. The match will be open to the public, free of charge.

49ers Open Tonight In Minnesota

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—The San Francisco 49ers open their exhibition season against the Minnesota Vikings tonight here at Multnomah Stadium.

Five 49ers are out for a variety of reasons.

J. D. Smith, the team's number one runner, and veteran end Clyde Conner are definitely out with injuries. Guards Bruce Bosley and Mike Magac are doubtful because of injuries and coach Red Hickey hopes to get by without them. Guard Ted Connolly is warring with the team over his contract.

Kermit Alexander, the much-heralded back, is expected to be restricted to runbacks, since he has only been in camp a week.

WATCHING BACKS

Hickey will especially be looking at such backs as Lloyd Winston, Jim Vollenweider and rookies Mike Lind and Don Lisbon. They have run well in practice and, if one could be found to join Smith in the starting backfield, the versatile Alexander might wind up playing defense.

The 49er passing game should be a strong one with quarterback John Brodie having a pair of outstanding young receivers in Bernie Casey and Jim Johnson.

Leon Donohue and John Thomas will open at guards.

Minnesota will not unveil its flashy quarterback, Ron Vanderkelen, but veteran Fran Tarkenton is around and he can throw with the best of them. Vanderkelen, who starred for the College All Stars against Green Bay, also has only had a week of practice.

Named Player-Coach

DETROIT (AP) — Vic Stasiuk, 13-year veteran of the National Hockey League, was named player-coach of the Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League yesterday.

832 Tops Greenbrae Lanes

Bill Poulopoulos cracked the pins for an 832 four-game series in the Thursday Men's Doubles League to top the scores for the week at Greenbrae Lanes.

Chet Solberg rolled a 628 three-game set to win high honors in the Early Birds League, six pins higher than Red Whitaker of the Swiss Doubles League. Whitaker rolled a 622 which was topped by a 244 game, high for the week.

Nikki Simonian topped the women for the week with a 558 series in the Bowling Bags League and Jackie Newsom rolled a 732 four-game set to take high honors in the 476 Scratch Trio League. Marilyn Epidendio of the same league was close behind with a 727 series.

Jackie Newsom's series included the week's high game for the gals, a 235. Lil Scotto rolled a 218 game for runner-up spot.

HE WON'T MEET LISTON THIS YEAR

When boxer-poet Cassius Clay (right) and bandleader Lionel Hampton got together at a New York night club, they joined forces to hold up eight fingers, indicating that Clay will down world heavyweight boxing champ Sonny Liston in the eighth round when the bout takes place. The much talked about fight will not take place this year, however, after a September date fell through because of Liston's "tax problems." (UPI Telephoto)

Hickey Shows Signs Of Fright By Starting Vets In Exhibition Game

RANDOL

Comes it now the time to put the x-ray eye on the overworked brain of Coach Red Hickey of the San Francisco 49ers. And that ain't easy, because the headman's noggin really has some tough problems with which to cope.

Faced with the pro-ball exhibition series opener with the Minnesota Vikings in Portland tonight, I would guess that Hickey is leveling in sheer fright and desperation. The tipoff is the announced starting lineup for the S.F. footballers—all veterans.

Consider the facts. The Niners haven't exactly covered themselves with glory the past couple of years. Ticket sales have fallen off. There is an undercurrent of unrest in the 49er camp. And Coach Hickey is on the last year of his contract.

EXHIBITION games are normally the vehicle for breaking in rookies and testing for strengths and weaknesses. No question, a good take at the box office helps pay the freight and publicizes pro football. As for winning or losing, most coaches couldn't care less.

Fighting for his job, Hickey can't take the chance and he is going with experienced men. A few wins before the season starts may quiet the howling of the wolves, and also might give a transfusion to ticket sales. All the wolves are not in the stands; some sit in the front office.

Of course many of the new men will get a chance to dirty their uniforms, but I don't expect too much action from the bench. Not unless the 49ers can build up a sizable lead over the Vikings. And that may be tough to accomplish, even with five rookies in the Minnesota starting 22.

OUR REDHEAD has problems both ways—offense and defense. With Mike Magac and Bruce Bosley on the injured list and Ted Connolly working out daily with his lawyer instead of his teammates, Coach Hickey really hurts in the middle of his offensive line. Remember the Los Angeles Rams? Some of the greatest backs in football couldn't move the ball because there was no running guard who could pull out and lead the plays.

Don't expect too much from Bob St. Clair at tackle. The years are catching up with him, and Bob really wanted to retire at the end of last season. One more season will mean a big difference in the retirement check Bob will take home later on, so he will be fighting to stay on the squad. But how hard?

At ends the 49ers have some real fancy Dans, and chances are that this will be the entire backbone of attack this year. If the quarterbacks can find some protection they will have men to throw to.

KEEP YOUR eyes on the San Francisco pass defense. This has proved one of the real puzzlers of the pro circuit. Three years ago the 49er secondary was touted for greatness that couldn't miss. Everything that came their way was covered, batted down or intercepted.

During the past two years this sparkling and daring group learned the meaning of caution and greatness went out the window. You would think they were threatened with a fine for every man who got behind them. They did stop many of the real long gainers but were too timid to attempt interceptions.

Hickey has shuffled his players around a bit this year, hoping to plug some gaps, and this is probably the big reason for his leaning on veterans. Should these steps fail to produce results you are going to suffer through some gosh-awful games this year.

The Niners will probably beat the Vikings tonight, but I would rather see them lose while developing a new crop of players. When you can't win with the horses you have, it's time to look for new ones.

Pinkie's Cagers Move Into League Top Spot

Pinkie's Pizza punctured league-leading Cain's Tires Thursday 67-51 and moved into first place in the Drake High summer basketball league adult division.

Rolly Ronsville's 22 points and Joe McGrath's 21 led the Pinkie's charge which gave them a 7-1 mark and dropped Cain's into a tie for second with the Old Soldiers at 6-1. Next week Gain's and the Old Soldiers battle in a game which will eliminate the loser from title contention.

The Old Soldiers almost saw their chances wrecked by Santa Rosa J. C., which took them into overtime before losing 66-64. Don Pinot scored 28 points for the winners, including four of their eight overtime markers. John Livie tallied 21 for Santa Rosa.

John's brother, Lynn, poured in 18 points to pace Schaefer's Ice Cream past College of Marin 75-61. Schaefer's (5-2) thus maintained their faint title hopes. Pete Bardea meshed 17 for the Tars, who play Pinkie's next week.

Eberhardt's Service upset Don's Market 51-47 for their first victory in seven tries. Conrad Hoetger led Eberhardt's with 20 points, while Andy Kelleher tallied 17 for Don's, now 4-4.

Billings-Hutchison Builders also won their first game by tipping Locke Plumbing 35-33. B-H thus moved into a last place tie with Locke at 1-7. Ed O'Connell scored 16 for the winners.

Belvedere, S.R. Tennis Clubs Divide Matches

The Rafael Racquet Club buried the Belvedere Tennis Club in both divisions of the Junior Davis Cup match Thursday. They won Division I (15-18 years of age) at the racquet club 6-0 and Division II (14 and under) at Belvedere 7-2.

Results in Division I:

Singles—Peter Youtz (R) d. Witt Ingram (B) 10-4; John Strasenburgh (R) d. Steve Bunker (B) 10-6; George Lindahl (R) d. Mark Atchley (B) 10-0; Jim Danse (R) d. Tom Ferguson (B) 10-1.

Doubles — Youtz and Strasenburgh d. Ingram and Bunker 10-4; Lindahl and Mitch Fink d. Atchley and Ferguson 10-2.

Results in Division II

Singles—Carter Ingram (B) d. Dave Strathairn (R) 10-6; Tom Shock (R) d. Knox Loeffler (B) 10-1; Dave Detrick (R) d. Brice Costello (B) 11-9; Dan Elliott (R) d. Henry Outten (B) 10-5; Jeff Braun (R) d. Bob Peterson (B) 10-2; Jim Youtz (R) d. Rusty Rice (B) 10-1.

Doubles—Shock and Chris Braun d. Loeffler and Outten 10-2; Costello and Ingram d. Strathairn and Detrick 11-9; Elliott and Jeff Braun d. Rice and Peterson 10-2.

Mill Valley Merchants Take On Pacifica '9'

12 Marin County Drivers Race At Petaluma Track

Marin County drivers are picking up the pace in the NASCAR-sanctioned stock races at the Petaluma Fairgrounds on Saturday nights.

There are a dozen drivers from Marin County who enter the races each Saturday night, and many of them are expected back again tonight for the time trials which start at 7 p.m. and the first race that begins at 8 p.m.

San Rafael has seven representatives in Jack Dempsey, Charley Louwaert, Cliff Morris, Merle Samples, Dave Crumley, Ronny Ross and Johnny Marshall.

Craumley and Ross in the past took turns piloting their yellow Chevy, but now Ross has his own car.

Novato has four entries nearly each week in Frank Antonio, Don Brown, Jim Giubbioni and Jerry Medeiros.

The other Marin County entrant, Paul Milner, comes from Ross.

Dempsey and Louwaert have had the most success at the weekly races and both are currently ranked in the top 20. Dempsey is still hanging around the 10th spot.

All will be geared for another big night on Aug. 17 when Petaluma attracts the top drivers in the state for a 50-lap main event with double points for the winners.

A PRETTY FORM

Hamilton Air Force Base Golfers To Hold Tourney

A qualifier's golf tournament to select 11 golfers in three flights to represent Hamilton Air Force Base in the 28th Air Division tourney will be held at the Sonoma Golf and Country Club next week.

The qualifying action will be held next Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Senior Master Sgt. William O. Ross, in charge of the tourney, said three golfers over 45 years old will be selected for the Senior Flight, three women in the WAF Flight and five men in the Open Flight.

Those selected will compete in the 28th Air Division tourney which will be held at the Sonoma course, Aug. 19 through 22.

Hamilton's golfers won the runner-up spot in the tournamen last year and Reno Air Defense Sector took first place.

CHAMPIONSHIP AT STAKE

Builders, S.F. '9' To Clash

The Billings-Hutchison Builders and the Presidio of San Francisco will meet tomorrow to decide who is the champion team of the Marin Semi-Pro Baseball League.

Both teams ended the regular season in a deadlock for first place with six wins and one loss records. Game time will be 2 p.m. at San Rafael's Albert Field.

In other league action will be a battle for third place. The Ongaro Plumbers will face the San Anselmo Merchants at 1:30 p.m. on the Memorial Field diamond in San Anselmo.

The Presidio team lost the season opener to the Novato Knickerbockers by a score of 8-3 and have not lost a game since. The Builders were knocked over by this same Presidio bunch in extra innings on a grand slam homer.

To the winners of the championship game will go $125 first place money and to the loser will go second place money of $85. Both managers report their teams in good shape and both are predicting victory.

The Plumbers' record is 2-3 as compared to the 4-2 record for San Anselmo and an Ongaro victory could throw the race for the third place into a real battle. Art Meyer has been nominated for mound duty by the Merchants against right-hander Jack Sovereign of Ongaro.

In the championship game, it will be either Bob DeRosa or Jerry Walters on the mound for B-H, opposing Presidio's Mike Fukuiwizi.

Complete lineups for the championship game:

Presidio — Roland Mathews, cf; Joe Gomez, 2b; Stan Schlow, ss; John Jones, 3b; Jim Davis, rf; Chip Wavro, c; Wally Perkins, lf; Bill Aherne, 1b; Fukuiwizi, p.

Six Top Bay Area Softball Teams Vie In S.A. Tourney

Softball enthusiasts will be able to watch six of the Bay Area's top teams in action next week when play begins in the fourth annual San Anselmo Invitational Softball Tornament.

Action starts Tuesday when Country Club Bowl and Old Mill-Pro-Kill Pest Control tangle in the tournament opener at 6:30 p.m. at San Anselmo's Memorial Park.

OTHER TEAMS

Other teams competing are Sohner Tree Service, Two-Rock Army Base of Petaluma, North Bay Flag and Fairchild Semiconductor.

The 15-game round-robin tourney, sponsored by the San Anselmo Recreation Department, will conclude on Sunday, August 25, if a play-off is not necessary.

All contests will be played at Memorial Park in San Anselmo with the weekday and Saturday games to start at 6:30 and the Sunday doubleheaders slated for 3:30 p.m. Admission is free.

Most experts agree that the favorite's role should go to the Army nine from Petaluma. Two-Rock has what Athletic Director Ken McNulty calls "our best club in many years."

The Soldiers have a 16-1 record in military competition, recently captured the Petaluma "A" Softball League with a 9-1 mark and boast a current 30-6 over-all record.

Bob Lancaster and Denny Langford, last year's outstanding pitchers in the tournament, handle most of the hurling chores for Two-Rock. Left fielder Hal Redic with a .407 batting average is the top hitter.

With Earl Lowe on the mound, Country Club Bowl has one of the top hurlers in Northern California. The tall right-hander recently struck out 33 batters in two games in the San Rafael "A" League and has been averaging two strikeouts an inning during the season. Lowe has yet to allow an earned run after pitching three complete games in the San Rafael league.

Babe Galli and Howie Bottini lead the Country Club offense.

DEFENDING CHAMPS

Sohner Tree Service, defending Marin County champions, is paced by the hitting of Earl Beyer and Art Donati and the hurling of Jay Leatherwood and Lou Perazzo.

Beyer presently leads Sohner at the plate with a .364 average while Leatherwood hurled a no-hitter against Hamilton Field several weeks ago.

The Treemen have won 12 of their last 15 games.

CONTENDERS

North Bay Flag, formerly Nicasio Bisons, has a well-balanced squad and must be considered a contender. In Nolan Wilson and John Brookman, the Flagmen have two of the best hitters in local softball circles. Fastballer Dick Johnson does most of the pitching for North Bay.

The hopes of Fairchild Semiconductor rest mainly on the strong right arm of pitcher Bob Brown. Possessor of a wide assortment of breaking stuff, the talented hurler is one of the leading strikeout artists in the area. Ed Schulze leads Fairchild at the plate.

The chances of Old Mill-Pro-Kill Pest Control rest mainly on the right arm of Bob Wade. The bearded righthander has been the mainstay of the Old Mill pitching corps. Wade and Roger Baucom are the leading hitters.

10-YEAR-OLD BOY SHOOTS HOLE-IN-ONE

Bill Steiger, a 10-year-old golfer from Tiburon, had a very successful time on the golf links during a vacation trip to Twain Harte with his parents this week.

Bill took a mighty swing on the 148-yard No. 3 hole on the Twain Harte course and watched his ball roll in the cup for a hole-in-one.

According to Arthur (Buster) Holland, pro at the course, Bill is the youngest golfer to accomplish an ace since the course opened two and one-half years ago. A card has been placed in the clubhouse commemorating the feat.

The ace was witnessed by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dupuis and their son, Fred, also of Tiburon, the other members of the foursome. The young ace shooter is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted W. Steiger.

San Rafael Swim Team Wins Meet

The San Rafael Swim Club had four triple-winners as they swamped the Oak Park Otters of Santa Rosa 375-197 Thursday. Robin Bachrach in the girls 9-10 division; Diane Johnston (11-12); Larry Collins (13-14), and Sally Hasse (13-14) all won three events each.

Denny Arms won the (15-17) 200 yard Individual medley in the excellent time of 2:20.8, one second off the Redwood Empire League record.

The San Rafael Club also had five double winners. They were Brian Halloran (9-10); Dave Toponce (11-12); Jim Runyon (7-8); Tom Panages (9-10) and Mike Walraven (13-14).

Bible Reading School Continues

Seeking Loophole In Ban

By GEORGE CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP)—One way or another, many of the nation's schools plan to preserve a classroom religious note despite the recent U.S. Supreme Court decision banning prescribed devotional exercises.

In some communities such observances were being dropped. However, they avowedly were being retained in other places.

The varied reactions were turned up in a cross-country check by the Associated Press.

Some schools plan to modify customs with the idea of getting around any head-on collision with the court ruling. But others indicated prayers and Bible reading would go on as usual.

In some cases there was a ring of defiance.

"We don't care what the Supreme Court says," commented Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama.

He added daily Bible readings, without comment, will continue in all public schools, as required under state law.

However, a proposal was being weighed to classify the practice as a course of study, rather than an extracurricular exercise.

In some states, with similar laws, the approach was simply to allow past procedures to continue—by local initiative.

Georgia's school superintendent, Dr. Claude Purcell, said the court seems merely to have put chapel exercises on a voluntary basis, adding: "If the schools want to include a reading of some sort, this would be up to them."

In Idaho, where state law also has required daily Bible readings without comment, D. F. Engelking, state superintendent of public instruction, said: "I see no reason to change our procedure on the basis of what has happened up to now. Unless some court tells me otherwise, I plan to advise public school districts to continue to use the same procedure."

In some states where Bible reading, prayers, or both have been required, state authorities have issued rulings against the practice, resulting in various alternatives in some communities.

In some states, without specific laws on the matter, the view was simply to let past school practices continue, including prayer and Bible reading, if that is the custom.

"We will go on having Bible readings and prayers in the schools of this state just as we always have," said North Carolina's Gov. Terry Sanford.

"We do not require the Bible and praying, but we do these things because we want to. As I read the decisions, this kind of thing is not forbidden by the Constitution, and indeed, it should not be."

Although the court ruled only against prescribed devotionals, an outstanding question seemed to be whether local school boards or even a teacher, in setting such devotionals, did so as an arm of government.

Or were such teacher-initiated exercises voluntary? Some legal experts say no. Yet many school boards are taking the position that locally ordered school religious exercises are not in the mandatory category.

"We plan to go ahead with the prayers until somebody in authority stops us," says Charles W. Powers, school committee head in Somerset, Mass.

In 26 states, principally in the East and South, state regulations have required or permitted Bible reading and often the Lord's Prayer in schools. Ten states, mostly in the West, prohibit such practice.

The other 14 states have no laws on the books about it. Surveys have indicated that about 50 per cent of the nation's schools have included such devotionals, either under state law or without regulations on the matter.

Such practices have been required in the District of Columbia and 11 states: Alabama, Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Maine, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Tennessee.

In New Jersey, State Atty. Gen. Arthur J. Sills issued a ruling that the law requiring the devotional observances is void, but the state has met with scattered challenges on the local level.

"People are trying very hard to avoid doing what they should be doing," Sills said. "If they are really concerned about prayer, as I am as an individual, then they should have prayers at home."

Members Return To 1st Presbyterian

Members of the First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael will be able to move back to their Building at the corner of Fifth Avenue and E Street tomorrow.

They will find a new chancel in the 70 - year - old church.. The church, under leadership of senior minister Rev. Wesley C. Baker, has been meeting at the San Rafael Military Academy chapel since Easter while the renovation was in progress.

The new interior, designed by architect Lyle Hood, has a Byzantine apse with a circular ambulatory and choir loft, a large oaken altar table, a new lectern and a new, high-side pulpit. Cost was $100,000.

Still awaited is a new Moller organ which is under construction in Hagerstown, Md. It will be completed this fall.

There will be confirmations and baptisms tomorrow, and Baker will give a sermon "On Staying Alive."

TIE SQUARE KNOT, NOT HALF HITCH

SHAKER HEIGHTS, Ohio (AP)—Instead of a brief ceremony "to make everything legal," a marriage service should be a pronouncement of the church to all present of what marital life should be, says Rev. Milton D. Jones. And he's taken steps to make it just that.

At Immanuel Church of Shaker Heights (Evangelical and Reformed) where Jones is minister, weddings are a full half-hour worship service, complete with printed bulletin, sermonette, scripture reading, prayers and hymns. There is a special white bench at the front of the church for the couple to sit on during the sermonette.

Bishop Predicts Lutheran Union In World Federation

Bishop Hanns Lilje predicted here that all Lutheran churches will eventually be united in membership in the Lutheran World Federation and that this will "probably happen much faster than many think," the National Lutheran Council reported today.

The German church leader, who is a former Federation president (1952-57), told a press conference that despite difficulties "much progress" has been made towards this goal in recent years.

Specifically, he said, "some of the few important churches still outside (the Federation) have taken big steps" in this direction. He did not single out by name.

He said the very fact of theological differences within the Lutheran confession "gives me a confident and positive attitude."

"For me these differences are proof of the liveliness and openness of Lutheran theology and show that we are not a petrified church," he declared.

Other problems, he said, stem from non-theological factors arising from the fact that Lutheran churches have different traditions and backgrounds.

But, he forecast, these too will be overcome more rapidly than most Lutherans believe.

Bishop Lilje gave the press conference in connection with the Federation's Fourth Assembly, in session here through tomorrow.

The Federation is composed of 73 churches in 38 countries with total baptized membership of more than 52,000,000 persons.

Churches outside the Federation total 122 with Lutheran membership estimated at about 29,000,000.

The largest single group of these is the 12 German Union churches which have a combined estimated membership of 21,900,000, of whom about 15,000,000 are reported to be Lutheran and the remainder Reformed.

Speaking of these, Bishop Lilje said the Federation wished to make it clear that it regarded the Lutherans in these churches as "brothers" but that "as long as the legal framework of the united churches exists, we will not seek to break it down."

Questioned about the possibility that very small Lutheran churches in certain areas might join in regional federations preparatory to seeking LWF membership, the Bishop commented that "church unity must be created wherever possible," but emphasized that Federation membership in no way hindered the participation of these churches in other organizations.

"After all, we all belong to the World Council of Churches," he commented.

Bible Schools Open Monday

Three vacation Bible schools will begin Monday at three churches in Marin County and conclude on Aug. 23. The classes will be from 9:30 a.m. to noon, excepting at the Tiburon Baptist Church where classes will begin at 9 a.m.

Other churches where the schools will be held are Calvary Baptist Church in Larkspur and the San Anselmo Church of the Nazarene.

A Change In Customs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Revisions in U.S. customs regulations, at the behest of religious groups, allows altars, pupits, baptismal fonts, communion tables and other religious items to be imported duty free if they are destined for use of a church-associated organization.

KOL SHOFAR OPENS FORUM FOR SUMMER

The first summer forum at Congregation Kol Shofar will begin Friday after regular 8:15 p.m. services at the Marin Jewish Center, Mission and Forbes avenues, San Rafael.

First topic wil be "Judaism and Christianity." The discussion, to take the place of a sermon, will be lead by Harry Yaffee, secretary of the congregation.

Future topics include "What Future Judaism in America," "Judaism and Ethics," "The Sabbath," and "Ritual in Jewish Life."

Goal Is Not Church Buildup

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Churches should not use service to people as a means of building up the church, Rev. Cedric W. Tilberg, a social-ministry officer of the Lutheran Church in America, says.

He told a meeting here the proper motivation should be simply to act as servants to Christ in helping people. He added that God didn't provide the world to serve the church, but the "church to serve the world."

To Honor Jewish Dead

BERLIN (AP) — Plans have been announced by the Evangelical Church of Westphalia to erect a Protestant church symbolizing repentance as a memorial to Jewish victims of the Hitler regime. It probably will be built on the site of the notorious Nazi concentration camp of Bergen-Belsen.

A FEW SNICKERS

Built 1st Church In Dodge City

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

One hot summer day in 1877, the train from the East pulled into Dodge City, Kans., bearing a small, dignified man in top hat and tailcoat.

He attracted curious looks and a few snickers as he climbed down from the dusty railroad coach, claimed his valise, and made his way through a crowd of roughly-dressed cowpokes to the hotel on Front Street.

If the onlookers had known who he was, and why he came to Dodge City, they wouldn't have snickered. They'd have laughed out loud.

Dodge City in those days was proud of its reputation as "the wickedest town in the West." And it fully deserved the title. Front street was about as wide open as a street can get. The saloons stayed open all night, and the houses of prostitution did a booming business.

Any cattleman who got tired of liquor and sex could find a high-stakes poker game to keep him amused. Gun fights and wanton killings were almost as common, in actual fact, as TV westerns would have you believe.

The one thing that Dodge City didn't have — and didn't want—was a church.

Several itinerant preachers had ventured into the "Babylon of the West" but all of them had left precipitately, at the invitation of the townfolk. Legend has it that some were tarred and feathered before being escorted out of Dodge City.

The little man in the top hat may have thought of all this when he boldly signed his name in the hotel register:

"The Reverend Ormond W. Wright."

Wright was a field representative of the Presbyterian Board of Home Missions in New York. He had not come to Dodge City to conduct a few preaching services and flee for his life. His audacious purpose was to plant the cross of Christ firmly and conspicuously in this citadel of Satan. He had come, in short, to build a church.

The incredible fact is that he did it. He even managed, in time, to make deacons out of Bat Masterson and Wyatt Earp.

"Why this man succeeded where others had failed remains a historical mystery," said Presbyterian Life Magazine this week, in an article paying overdue tribute to the little-known "frontier preacher."

Actually, it's not such a mystery. Old histories of Dodge City record an incident which took place shortly after Wright's arrival, which made a tremendous impression on the gun-toting cowboys and the women who entertained them.

A prostitute had been killed by a stray bullet during a saloon brawl. A delegation of dismayed and drunken cowboys went to the preacher's hotel room and awakened him with loud knocking on the door. They told him what had happened, and asked him to give the luckless girl "Christian burial."

In those strait-laced days, most ministers would have huffily rejected such a request. But Wright did not. He performed the funeral service, reading over the girl's grave the Gospel account of Christ's tenderness toward a woman taken in adultery.

This act of compassion seems to have established a rapport between the prim-looking litle preacher and the rough men and women he had come to serve. Wright soon began to hold religious services in whatever quarters were available to him—usually a saloon or dance hall. He was able to tell the Presbyterian Board of Home Missions, in his first official report, that he had 13 regular members of his congregation.

The board sent word that it would contribute $450—a whopping sum in those days — for the construction of a church building, provided the local residents would raise a matching sum. It was taken for granted in New York that it would take Wright a year or two to obtain his half of the building fund.

But the word got around Front Street that Preacher Wright needed $450 to build a church. The hat was passed in saloons and bawdy houses, and on one roaring Saturday night, the whole sum was contributed, with a few dollars to spare.

And that's how Dodge City got its first church.

DORON WILL RETIRE AT SAUSALITO

Rev. Joseph S. Doron, rector of Christ Episcopal Church in Sausalito has announced that he plans to retire in about one year.

Doron, who has been at the church for 10 years, said he is nearing the minimum retirement age and that he feels a younger man should take over his post.

Doron said he was making his anouncement early, so that the parish would not be faced suddenly with selection of a new rector.

Can't Walk, But He Can Fly And Drive

Determined Not To Be Captive Of Wheelchair

By BOB HARING

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Rev. Russell Heriford can't walk—but he can fly.

Heriford, 38, is a paraplegic — paralyzed from the waist down by World War II wounds. But that does not stop him from serving as a minister in the Nazarene Chuch—or from piloting an airplane.

Heriford was a tank man when U.S. armored forces crossed the Rhine River into Germany. His tank had started across an open field when machine guns began firing. Suddenly Heriford found himself on the ground.

"There was no pain—no remembrance of the bullet rolling me off the tank," he recalls. "I tried to get up, but nothing moved except my head and left arm."

The bullet had entered his right shoulder, pierced his right lung—and damaged his spinal cord.

"I was determined not to be a captive of the wheelchair," Heriford says.

He learned to drive a car, then won a license to fly a simple type airplane. In 1958, he was licensed to fly a more complicated type of plane, adapted with a hand control for the rudders, which normally are operated by the feet.

Heriford met his wife, Kittie, while he was in a Veterans Hospital in Memphis, Tenn. They have two adopted sons, Tommy, 7, and Jimmy, 9.

The Herifords moved to Tulsa in 1948, then in 1951 went to New Mexico, where he worked for the Air Force.

But in 1953 Heriford decided "the Lord was calling me to preach." He entered Pasadena College in California and was graduated in 1957. They rerecently returned to Oklahoma, but, after a few months in Tulsa, moved to nearby Inola because it gave Heriford a handier place to land his plane. He and his family fly to Tulsa for Sunday service. He also flies around the United States and Canada to preach.

At first, Heriford preached from a wheel chair. But then he invented a folding unit which he can use to stand. His device is sold nationally.

Recently Completed $34,000

A sparkling new home recently completed. 3 bedrms., 2 baths and right across the street from Peacock Gap Golf Course. The traditional brick fireplace is set against a random planked birch background wall. The built-in Westinghouse appliances and ribbon grain mahogany cabinets create a delightfully modern and efficient kitchen. Wall to wall carpeting throughout, of course. #183.

Across from Lagoon—4 BEDRMS. $40,000

This lovely FOUR bedrm., 2 bath home is situated on Riviera Dr. opposite the Peacock Sailing Lagoon. Just completed, this home features a large separate billiard room, ideal playroom or entertaining. Other features include all electric Tappan kitchen, wall to wall carpeting, and walk-in closet. Lot is level and has wonderful pool site. #171.

Golf Course Residence $42,500

Master crafted by one of Bay Area's finest builders. This spacious 3 bedrm., 2 bath home is located on the 15th Fairway. Lustrous oak floors and lavish use of textured ceramic tile are features of this fine residence. Artistically designed 2-way fireplace separates living room from hardwood paneled family room. Inviting benches are already a part of the deck, a wonderful area for outdoor entertaining. #48.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

There Have Been Many Changes In Lives Of Japanese Since War

VAN DELLEN

The Japanese, following World War II, developed several psychiatric problems in shifting from the traditional familism and authoritarian way of life to individualism and democracy. In addition, a greater rift than usual exists between younger and older generations as a result of economic changes.

According to a report in the Medical Tribune, wives no longer are submissive to their husbands, teachers have lost authority over children, divorce rates are going up, and juvenile delinquency is on the increase. The incidence of suicide continues to be high and ranks first or second among certain age groups of the younger generation. Psychriatrists have a special problem because the Japanese cling to the belief that mental diseases are hereditary, hence incurable.

SOME PEOPLE use poor judgment when grocery shopping. They unscrew caps on food jars, sometimes taste the food, and return them to the shelves. The item is now contaminated. This is serious when the jar contains baby food.

The Committee on Nutrition of the American Academy of Pediatrics urges mothers to observe the warning instructions on caps of baby food jars. One cap has a flexible button that pops up when the lid has been unscrewed. Another has parallel lines that become discontinuous when the cap is turned.

A NEW disease has been discovered among children—erasorophagia. Two West Virginia radiologists X-rayed the abdomen of an 8-yearold and the film showed "numerous discrete opacities widely scattered throughout the colon." Close questioning of the girl revealed she was in the habit of nibbling on erasers as she sat in class. They were too opaque to cast a shadow under the X-ray and showed up as white spots.

A 12-year-old boy manifested the same condition. The physicians, not to be outdone, then swallowed some bits of erasers. But only those containing a harmless substance, lithophone, appeared on the X-rays as white spots.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

DISPLACED DISK MATERIAL

H. H. writes: Is a hernia of the spinal disk the same as a slipped disk?

REPLY

Yes. In the strict sense, the disk itself does not slip but its inner soft material herniates or protrudes through the edge of the disk and presses upon the spinal cord or a nerve. The cause of this condition is weakness or degeneration of the edge of a disk.

INFLAMED THYROID

S. C. writes: I'm 50 years old and have been suffering from thyroiditis for six months. Cortisone and hormones have not helped. How long does this disorder usually last?

REPLY

Thyroiditis is difficult to correct. Other treatments include thyroid extract, X-ray therapy, and surgery, depending upon the nature of the infection.

TOO MANY CHROMOSOMES

S. L. writes: Would a chromosome test determine accurately whether an infant is a mongoloid? This is a borderline case.

REPLY

Yes. Most mongoloid babies have 47 (instead of 46) chromosomes. Tests of this type usually are made on cells removed from the mouth or skin.

BREATH HOLDING

R. L. writes: Will holding the breath put a strain on the heart?

REPLY

Yes, especially when done forcibly. Holding the breath tends to block the flow of blood that enters the heart.

Today's Health Hint—When wading, test each step in advance for underwater rocks or holes.

Twin Cities Dance Co-Op Faculty Named

Ann Halprin of Kentfield and John Graham of San Francisco will be on the faculty of the Larkspur-Corte Madera Dance Cooperative, opening its 1963-64 session next month.

The co-op will offer classes for pre-school, elementary school and teen-age pupils at the Henry C. Hall School in Larkspur.

Mrs. Halprin and Graham recently returned from a dance tour of Europe, along with A. A. Leath of San Francisco, who will teach co-op classes at Terra Linda.

The tentative schedule for classes is: seventh and eighth graders, 9 to 10 a.m.; first and second graders, 10 to 10:45; third and fourth graders, 10:45 to 11:45, and fifth and sixth graders, 11:45 to 12:45.

Army Suggestion Award Announced

Mrs. Louise Conjulusa of 320 Third Street, San Rafael, has received an Army suggestion award of $15 in connection with her job as a statistical coding clerk in headquarters at the Presidio.

Mrs. Conjulusa suggested overprinting information on an existing form to save individual typing time. Last year she received a sustained superior performance award of $100.

Prison Captain Stays On Stand At Minor Trial

Capt. Carl Hocker of the San Quentin guard force stayed on the witness stand throughout yesterday in the conspiracy trial of ex-guard Robert W. Minor Jr. in Marin County Superior Court.

Minor, of San Francisco, is accused of planning to aid prisoners in a scheme to print bogus payroll checks on the prison printing press.

Under cross-examination by defense attorney Benjamin Dreyfus, Hocker said an inmate, Caesar (Frisco Fats) Lewis had volunteered to be an informer on the scheme two months before plans were smashed last September.

He reported Lewis had named Minor as a guard who did favors for prisoners and whe was involved in the plans.

College Of Marin Gym Bids Will Be Studied

The Marin Junior College District board, in withholding contract award for building a new physical education complex Thursday night, did not vote to readvertise for bids, as mistakenly reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

All bids were well above the architect's estimate. They were referred to the archiectural firm of Falk and Booth for analysis and report, with decision on whether to readvertise to be made after that report is received.

Completes Training

Airman 2c Kenneth C. Adams of Larkspur, has completed the Air Force technical training course for radio equipment repairmen at Keesler Air Force Base, Miss. He is a son of Dr. and Mrs. Gail D. Adams of 129 Elm Avenue.

Mother, Daughter Back From Europe

Mrs. Frances Heller of 76 Oakmont Avenue, San Rafael, and her daughter, Jennifer Rhea, have returned home after a year in Europe.

They enjoyed a Christmas vacation in Norway, a visit to Israel, and the World Baha'i Faith Congress in London Apr. 27 to May 5.

At the congress they were joined by other members of the Baha'i faith from Marin County: Gordon Burke, Florence Haake and Roderic Haake of San Rafael; Mr. Rochelle Sohrab, Mrs. Lois Stockton and Peter D. Phillips of Novato and Mrs. Carol Noah of Terra Linda.

Since her return Mrs. Heller has joined the faculty of the Geyserville summer school. As house guests, she has two students from China and one from Hawaii.

Ten-year-old Jennifer, who attended the American School of London, last year, will return to school in San Rafael next month.

Last Teen Dance

The last dance of the teenage summer recreation program sponsored by the Novato parks and recreation department will be held at 8 o'clock tonight at the Novato High School cafeteria.

Ex-Resident Picked Up On Check Charge

A former San Anselmo resident, Adrian Jack Bried, was picked up by police yesterday in San Mateo and jailed there on a warrant from San Anselmo police seeking his arrest for a bad check.

Sam Serio, assistant chief, said Bried cashed a $141 check in San Anselmo about a year ago.

Teacher Jailed On Theft Charge

A 35-year-old Sacramento school teacher was jailed by San Anselmo police yesterday after he allegedly stole a vacuum cleaner from Ernest Ongaro and Sons Inc., 243 San Anselmo Avenue.

Donald Ongaro called police at 4:55 p.m. to give a description of the car James Richard Wolfe drove away in. Officer Robert White spotted the car parked at 225 Greenfield Avenue at 5:28 p.m.

Wolfe, according to White, was peeking out from behind a nearby building. Police found various articles of clothes in back of Wolfe's car.

Auto Is Stolen

Theft of a 1956 Plymouth, belonging to Donald Bartle of the San Anselmo Hotel, was reported to San Anselmo Police yesterday. Bartle said the locked car was stolen from the parking lot between Ross and Bolinas avenues sometime Thursday night.

A Better Airport For Marin County

Improvement Program At The Airport

New Access Road Is But First Step Toward Better Facilities At Novato

By THERON NEWELL

When work started last month on a new access road to the Marin County Airport at Novato, it represented the first major improvement to the airport since it became a county airport in 1959.

"Building this access road is not all that will be done to the airport this year," promised Donald R. Frost, Marin County director of public works.

The present runway will be either widened or paved at its present width, Frost explained.

"I DON'T KNOW yet which way we will go with that project," he added.

William Wright Jr., owner of the land, and Harry Tollefson, who has a contract with the county to run the airport, stated that a parallel taxi strip and communication system would also be added to the airport facilities this year.

So more is being done to the airport this year than has been done to it in its history.

ORIGINALLY THE county public works department had estimated that it would cost $22,000 to put in the road. This would have almost completely wiped out the approximately $29,000 available in the gas tax airport fund.

However, by the county using its own crews for parts of the work and getting the required fill for much less than anticipated, the road will cost less than planned, Frost said.

He estimated that the road will now cost only $16,000 to $17,000 when completed early this fall.

BIGGEST SAVING for the county was in the road fill material. The job will require 7,000 cubic yards of fill. Reichold and Jurcovich, who are doing shoulder work for the State Division of Highways on Highway 101, needed a place to dispose of their fill. They agreed to sell it to the county for 40 cents a yard, delivered in place on the road.

This will cost $2,800.

The county must also install a left turn lane in the center of Highway 101 where the new access road intersects it. Frost estimated this cost at $3,000.

It will take another $2,600 for the railroad crossing and another $3,500 for compacting the fill, Frost said.

WHEN FINISHED, the new road will be 2,000 feet north of the present private access road to the airport. It will go directly east of Highway 101 and then have a short L to the south as it approaches the airport runway.

"The county may do some work for a parking area at the end of the runway," Frost said. "Then the work to be done on the runway depends on how much money is left in the airport fund."

"The work done this year will only be one step in get-

MARIN CLEANERS of San Rafael, Bel Aire & Fairfax

"HOW DID THIS BROWN STAIN GET ON MY DRESS?"

Examination reveals that the brown stain to which you refer is classified as a "tannin" stain. Tannin is an ingredient found in a number of household food products such as coffee, tea, walnuts and vegetable oils. It is possible that you accidentally came in contact with a substance containing tannin. Such substances do not create stiffness in a fabric. They are absorbed by the fibers and often unnoticed until heat is applied.

Before drycleaning or the application of any home pressing heat, fabrics that come in contact with tannin-bearing products should be professionally "spotted." That is, the place where the spillage occurred should be marked and called to the attention of your drycleaner so that he can give it professional care before he cleans it. This should be done promptly. If a tannin stain is permitted to "age" for a period of time, it will become set and very difficult or impossible to remove.

So how you received the stain, we do not know. It is from the spillage of a tannin - bearing product. Prompt care by your drycleaner would have prevented the brown stain to which you object.

There's New Life At The Airport

ting a bigger and better airport," said Supervisor William Gnoss, in whose district the airport is located.

HE POINTED out that the original purchase of the airport land and the operation of the airport is not a burden on the taxpayers. The county receives an allocation of unclaimed gasoline taxes for airport purposes. This goes into a special airport fund.

It is from this fund that all of the costs of the airport are paid, and have been paid.

The county gets approximately $2,500 per year, Gnoss said. By recent law the county must match this, making a total fund of about $5,000 per year, he said.

In addition, Marin County gets 30 per cent of the "tie-down" fees. At the present time, there are 53 planes tied down at the airport, paying $8 per month.

THE AIRPORT charges transient planes 50 cents a night to tie down at the airport. This brought in $1,116 last year to the county. (Gnoss also pointed out that this small transient charge ought to be raised because "one can't even park a car very long for that amount.")

The county also makes a profit on the airport.

It has one source of income from the airport which does not go into the airport fund, but into the general fund of the county. This is the personal property tax on the planes tied down at the airport.

County Assessor Bert Broemmel stated that the tax is one and one half per cent on the market value of the planes. This year the planes were valued at $346,000, according to Broemmel. The tax on these planes brings in $5,190 a year, he said.

THE AIRPORT has been the subject of many stormy battles and much criticism in its lifetime. Before the Novato site was selected, there were movements to get a seaplane base on Richardson Bay and on behalf of another site on Pt. San Quentin for the county airport.

Since the Novato site was selected and the airport acquired in 1959, criticism has been leveled at the condition of the airport. The most recent came from the Tamalpais Aero Club late this past spring.

The original airport agreement was made between William Q. Wright Sr., Harry Tollefson and the board of supervisors.

THIS AGREEMENT called for the county to purchase the airstrip out of the approximately $32,000 that was in the county airport fund at that time. That orginal agreement also provided that the county would get the 30 per cent of the tie-down fees. Wright was to furnish the county with a right of way access to the airport. Tollefson was to furnish "taxi ways, the tie down area, parking

"Some of the Finest People in Marin Live at Marin Bay"

STEREO HI-FI

By C. J. Catania
Audio Engineer

Many people have told me that they heard stereo and that they did not like the sound, or that it didn't sound as good as their Hi-Fi set. In almost every case, these people have been exposed to either of two conditions or a combination of both.

One of the discouraging exposures is to hear a system that has poor, distorted quality. Just because a system is a stereo one, it does not necessarily mean that the sound quality will be good. There are probably more stereo sets available on today's market that have inferior sound reproduction than there are Hi-Fi sets. Some of the manufacturers and merchandisers are using the magical term "stereo" to lure the buyer.

The second discouraging exposure to stereo is to hear a system that has the loudspeakers improperly placed. The worst condition is to have the loudspeakers placed on opposite sides of the room with the listener in the middle. Even the highest quality stereo sound systems would give the listener an unnatural interpretation of the music. This condition can be described by visualizing an orchestra placed with half of the musicians on one side of a hall, and the other half on the other side of the hall with you, the listener, in the middle. It certainly wouldn't be a very blended orchestral sound, would it?

Another incorrect loudspeaker placement is to have them too far apart, say 12 to 20 feet apart in a normal sized living room. This spacing would make the orchestral sound unbalanced and with a gap of no sound between the two speakers, often called the "hole in the middle". Wide spacing also gives you a ping pong effect, a bouncing from side to side of the music.

The most common speaker placement in low cost stereo sets is to have them too close together, usually no more then 2 or 3 feet from each other. This type of stereo set will sound no better or different than a monaural or Hi-Fi set of the same price quality. The sounds will blend together as soon as they leave the speakers and the dimensional effect of stereo will be lost.

If you are one who has heard stereo and feel that you do not like the sound, visit our sound room and let us give you a demonstration. Allow us to show you the difference. Treat yourself to good sound; then you be the judge.

An Airport With A Future

areas and other airport facilities."

Marin County was to build the access road, according to a subsequent agreement two years ago. It had to pay Wright $1,000 per year until the road was built.

"We paid it last year, and that was enough," Gnoss said.

A MASTER PLAN for the airport was adopted in September, 1960. This called for a second runway.

The additional runway would be north and south while the present one is east and west. It is still in the planning stages.

"This runway will provide the airport with an unbroken approach from eight miles on the north and six miles on the south, or 14 miles in both directions," said William Wright Jr., manager of the Wright interests. He pointed out that the present runway has Burdell Mountain in its path at the western approach to the runway.

Wright also pointed out that the county took an option to purchase 40 acres surrounding the present airstrip. This option still has about one and one-half years to run.

"I DO NOT feel free to build airport facilities on land on which the county has an option. They might wait until the buildings are up and then exercise their option and I would lose the buildings," Wright said.

"Marin County should have an airport," Wright continued. "The use of private planes has increased 300 per cent in 10 years and the use of business planes has increased 3,000 per cent in the same period."

He pointed out that the builders of the Nicasio Dam, developers of Bel Marin Keys and San Marin use the airport for business trips.

THE MARIN County airport has the advantage of being adjacent to Highway 101 with easy access to San Francisco, Tollefson pointed out. The airport is 28 miles from downtown San Francisco. It is closer than the San Carlos airport and about the same distance as the Oakland airport, its nearest rivals for the private plane business into San Francisco.

"We are going to build a nice airport here without any burden on the taxpayers," Tollefson asserted.

Eugene Trombley, chairman of the Marin County Airport Committee, sees a permanent place for the airport in Marin County, regardless of future developments. His committee has been active in trying to get a second airport east of the strip at Hamilton Air Force Base—one that could use the Hamilton tower.

"EVEN IF WE get an airstrip east of Hamilton for larger planes, we still need the present Novato airport to handle the small planes and student fliers," Trombley said. "In fact, having it as a secondary airport is a good argument in getting use of the Air Force tower."

Progress at the Novato airport will not stand still waiting for that decision, Gnoss promised. He had already called for a meeting between Wright, Tollefson, Frost and himself to iron out details of buildings and land titles.

"Next we can get things rolling on getting buildings and facilities that will give Marin County an airport it can be proud of," he added.

PHOTOGRAPHED THROUGH GLASS, these old sketches by an artist hang on the wall of the Marin Historical Society Museum in Boyd Park, San Rafael. The drawings show what the terrain, buildings and crops of the old Rancho Novato looked like. The rancho was granted to a Fernando Feliz by the Mexican governor of California in 1839. It then passed through many hands, and a portion of it was widely known as Freitas C Ranch for many years. Now the Freitas C Ranch is the site for San Marin, the new wholly-integrated community of 4,200 dwellings that is being developed by the Sunset International Petroleum Corp. (Independent-Journal photo)

From Rancho To A Planned Community

Legends of buried gold . . . old Mexican land grants . . . an ancient Indian village site and a young heir who dissipated his land and fortune—these are some of the romantic stories and ghosts that surround and haunt the beautiful hills and valley near Novato where now is rising the 100-million-dollar San Marin planned community.

Where once Mi-Wok Indians trod under the warming sun and over the rolling hills soon will appear 4,200 single and multi-family dwellings, carefully located to take advantage of and preserve the peaceful surroundings and natural scenery so beloved by its original inhabitants.

TRAILS THAT took men and cattle across the Freitas C Ranch will soon be paved streets leading to churches, schools, a shopping center and a recreational complex with swimming pools, tennis and handball courts and a recreation building with showers and lockers that would have amazed and delighted the early Dons.

The 2,000-acre planned community of San Marin is situated on the famed Freitas C Ranch which, through sale and exchange, marriages and foreclosures, dates back to the early Mexican land grants, and before that, to the Spanish missions and the peaceful Indians.

San Marin today is part of the original Rancho Novato and Rancho Nicasio, and is bordered by the Olompali land grant made to an Indian chief, and named for the tribe of Mi-Wok Indians who made its village there.

LEGEND HAS it that the old Indian chief sold his land in 1846 for $5,000 in Spanish gold, which he buried in the hills and for which he was murdered in 1856.

The gold was never found and may still be in its hiding place, waiting to be uncovered.

Where the Sunset International Petroleum Corp. is now developing San Marin, ownership of the lands can be traced back to 1839 and the Golden Age of California, with its pastoral scenes of grazing cattle and gayly-clad, leisurely-moving rancheros.

WHEN THE Mexican government took over control of California from Spain, much of the vast land holdings of the missions were secularized and given out as land grants. The Olompali grant bordering the modern San Marin, for instance, was given to the chief of the Mi-Woks living there—in 1830 by Mexican Gov. Camilo Ynitia.

In April of 1839, the Mexican governor of California, Juan Alavarado, granted the Rancho Novato to a Fernando Feliz. Then, in September of the same year, the new Mexican governor, Manuel Jimeno, perhaps not to be outdone, granted the same land to the same man.

Somehow though, and despite the beauty and richness of the land, the Rancho Novato was destined to change hands many times in a short period. Just why remains a mystery, taken to the grave with the passions and follies of the rancho's early owners.

IN DECEMBER of 1844, Feliz deeded his land to a Jacob Lease who had married Rosalia Vallejo, a descendant of General Vallejo. Just 23 months later, in November of 1846, Lease and his wife granted the Rancho Novato to a Bezar Simmons.

The chain of deed transfers was not to end here.

In December of 1850, just four years after he took possession, Bezar Simmons sold the rancho to a group from San Francisco, including Henry Halleck, James Bolton and Frederick Billings.

In July of 1852, just one and one-half years later, these men sold the Rancho Novato to an Archibald G. Peachy who in December of the same year disposed of it to an Andrew McCabe and a James Johnson.

THE RURAL SERENITY of the Freitas C Ranch near Novato was captured by photographer Les Walsh in this photo taken in the fall of 1962. But the picture is changing rapidly now. On what was once quiet grazing land, the Sunset International Petroleum Corp. is developing San Marin which, when completed, will be a complete community of 4,200 single-family and multi-family dwelling units. The planned community represents a 100-million-dollar investment.

The Rancho's Romantic Past

JOHNSON conveyed his interest in the rancho to a Joseph Sweetser in 1856. And in 1857 McCabe also deeded his half of the rancho to Sweetser.

Francis DeLong joined with Sweetser and the two men added to the land holdings of the Rancho Novato. The rancho then passed to DeLong's son, Frank, a total of 10,200 acres and $250,000.

As the story goes, young Frank found life in Marin too quiet—and he found diversion in women and horses. It would appear that, perhaps, the women were too fast and the horses weren't fast enough, for he defaulted on a note for $130,000, and the Rancho Novato went to the Novato Land Co. in a trustee sale in 1894 for $275,000.

IT WAS THE Novato Land Co. which turned a portion of the rancho land over to the community of Novato, part of which is now West Novato.

Then, in 1910, Manuel T. Freitas took possession and held it until its sale to San Marin, the longest period the rancho was ever held by one family.

The Rancho Nicasio, on which part of the San Marin planned community now rests, also held out great attraction, but can lay claim to far fewer owners.

THE EARLIEST known ownership was that of a Pablo de la Guerra, who received the land in a grant from Manuel Micheltorena, Mexican governor of California, in 1844.

Guerra and his wife Josephia granted nine square leagues (30,848 acres) to Henry Halleck of Civil War fame in 1850.

Halleck, in turn, deeded 6,700 acres to Joseph Sweetser and 4,600 acres to Francis DeLong in 1861.

A portion of Novato, today, is on Sweetser land. The balance, along with that of DeLong, passed on to the Novato Land Co. and to the Freitas family.

ACCORDING TO the Title Insurance Trust Co. of San Rafael, the conveyances of land ownerships of the two ranchos, which it traced, point out that land in Marin was high and obviously desirable, even before the turn of the century.

The Mexican land grants were confirmed by Abraham Lincoln during his presidency and thus upheld under United States law.

It is claimed that one of the Bear Flag War battles was fought on the present site of San Marin between the Mexicans and the Americans.

THE INDIANS that roamed the countryside were of the same stock that greeted Sir Francis Drake when he set foot on shore at Drake's Bay and described by him in his log.

That the land had been marked off even prior to 1830 is evidenced by the ancient blazes on the trees, many of which are now grown over by bark, but which can be seen by the trained eye of a surveyor.

But, if the Ranchos Novato and Nicasio held dreams for many in the past, parts of both now known as San Marin will hold dreams for thousands more in the near future, as a complete, wholly-integrated community is now emerging just a mile and a half from Novato.

In addition to the dwelling units, the project will include a shopping center, recreational complex, schools and churches. The first model homes are now open for public inspection.

WHILE THE FREITAS C RANCH was still untouched by the bulldozer and retained all its rural charm, photographer Ken Molino took this picture. The land is rich in its historic significance, having once been parts of the great Novato and Nicasio Ranchos. It has known many owners. But the rich soil and the natural beauty of the land has remained unchanged through the years.

EARTH-MOVING EQUIPMENT went to work as ground was broken for the construction of San Marin on the old Freitas C Ranch holdings. Where once there was only an Indian village, and then later, isolated ranch-houses, a modern community will soon rise. But the developers, Sunset International Petroleum Corp., plan to preserve the natural scenery and peaceful atmosphere which gives the area so much charm. (Photo by Ken Molino)

New Homes That Retain Old Charm

NEW HOMES SUCH as those shown here will be included in the single-family dwelling portion of the large San Marin development. The houses are especially planned to fit in perfectly with the country-living atmosphere which is certain to be one of San Marin's prime attractions for its residents.

POSING WITH JUST A FEW of the some 1,500 theatrical costumes in the famed Alexander Orloff Collection is Mrs. Sabina Orloff. She and her husband acquired the costumes while in Asia after they had fled Russia in 1930 as refugees. Most of the pieces are from the Russian classicial theater with some from the royal Vienna Opera House. A number of West Coast companies have costumed their productions by renting the stunning pieces from the collection. And the Marin Shakespeare Festival is currently using Orloff costumes for 12 of its principals appearing in "Othello" at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross. (Photo by Paul Dee)

Costumes Worthy Of 'The Bard'

Rich, Colorful Dress Adds Much To Marin's Shakespeare Festival

By DON KEOWN

Effective costuming is always a major challenge in the proper staging of a Shakespearean drama. But once it is achieved, it contributes mightily to the success of the production.

The Marin Shakespeare Festival had a double problem in costuming its current 1963 season, for it needed appropriate garb for not one but two productions of different requirements.

To solve that two-pronged problem, it looked to two vastly different sources—borrowed grandeur and communal effort. The result has been superb dressing for the casts of both its two plays—"Othello" and "The Taming of the Shrew."

Costumes for 12 principals in "Othello" were rented from the internationally-known Alexander Orloff collection in San Francisco.

THE DRESS for the cast of "The Taming of the Shrew" and lesser players in "Othello" is a result of a combination of imaginative designing by a 17-year-old Marin high school boy, four young pairs of skilled and willing hands from distant states, and much volunteer effort on the home-front from the Festival ranks itself.

First, those "Othello" costumes which so effectively project the richness of the period and contribute to the air of tragedy which the play demands:

Alexander and Sabina Orloff, who fled Russia in 1930 but did not reach this country until eight years ago, are the owners of the magnificent collection of more than 1,500 costumes for Shakespearean, Russian and other classical productions.

An inventory is now under way, Orloff says, to establish the exact figure.

THE COLLECTION comes primarily from two sources—the old Vienna Royal Opera House and the Russian classical theaters. All were acquired by the Orloffs from fellow refugees after leaving Russia.

"We brought nothing with us," Orloff explains. "We were fortunate to get ourselves out."

In Russia, Orloff had been a lawyer. But he also studied and acted with the Moscow Art Theater. And after World War I, he settled into a stage career with the Maley Theater, Russia's oldest. Mrs. Orloff, too, was in the theater.

ORLOFF'S unpublished memoirs of those days entitled "The Dust of Backstage," include a chapter devoted to the co-founders of the Moscow Art Theater, the fabulous C. S. Stanislavsky and V. I. Nemirovich - Danchenko, both of whom he knew personally. The former he describes as: "A seven-footer . . . exceedingly courteous to everyone regardless of his position . . . Due to a great self-concentration, he was remarkably absent-minded . . . It was easy to cheat him, so naive and trustful he was . . ."

Nemirovich-Danchenko, he says, was a "refined West European character, a man of strong but slightly rigid mind with strong will power and knowing how to achieve success . . ."

Wednesday of this week, Orloff notes, marked the 25th anniversary of Stanislavsky's death.

When the Orloffs left Russia in 1930, they went first to Manchuria where they made their home for a time at Harbin.

"It was a beautiful town for us refugees," Orloff recalls, "so much like old Russia and with so many of our own people there."

THE ORLOFFS bought themselves a large house and for a time were happy there, continuing their interest in the theater. But the Japanese brought all that to an end.

Once again the Orloffs were faced with the prospect of a hasty move, but this time they were determined not to leave everything behind. While they were not permitted to take money out of Manchuria, they hit upon a means of salvaging proceeds from the sale of their house. They invested the money in theater costumes and these they were able to take with them to Shanghai under the guise of personal clothing.

This marked the start of the costume collection. In Shanghai the Orloffs continued to purchase pieces from refugees who had, like them, been in the theater.

EVEN THEN, the Orloffs were determined that eventually they would make their way to the United States and San Francisco, which had become home-away-from-home for hundreds of fellow refugees.

But, when they made the move, Orloff says, "we took the long route." First there were three years in the Philippines, then an extended stay in Brazil before they were eventually admitted to the United States and came to San Francisco which was to become their permanent home.

Their costumes, however, had suffered no such delay.

The Orloffs had shipped the collection directly from Shanghai to San Francisco when they had left the Asian mainland. And by the time the Orloffs finally reached the city by the Golden Gate, the costume collection had been there waiting in storage with the U.S. Customs for eight years.

"WE HAD TO pay a big amount for storage," Orloff says, "but the pieces were all in remarkably good condition. The first thing we did upon our arrival in San Francisco was to check on them, and we were overjoyed to find that they had stood up so well under the extended storage."

The costumes are kept in strong, well-constructed wooden trunks lined with canvas cloth. The trunks, sprayed to prevent moth damage, are now stored in a rented San Francisco basement.

Their still excellent condition, Orloff says, "is undoubtedly because they have been so well-packed and so seldom disturbed."

The collection includes not just uniforms, gowns and other principal pieces of costumery, but also such accessories as bootery, headdresses, belts, etc.

THEY ARE, their owners say, "the kind of clothing which could not be replaced. All are handmade. And the quality fabrics used in many of them simply do not exist any more.

"The fine needlework is often something which has to be seen to be believed."

How much is the collection worth today?

Now that is a question which Orloff finds especially intriguing right now, because he would like to sell the collection and retire from his theater associations. "But," he admits, "it is almost impossible to set any value on such rare pieces. I can only say that I would give consideration to any reasonable offer."

HE WOULD like to sell the collection as a whole, but feels he may find it necessary, finally, to dispose of it in lots.

"For instance," he says, "we

FOUR PAIRS OF HELPING hands for the Marin Shakespeare Festival and its costumes for "The Taming of the Shrew" came from the Lisle Fellowship. Left to right are Julie Blom of Pleasantville, N.Y., Louise Uttal of Yonkers, N.Y., Georgia Golden of St. Simon's Island, Ga., and Jeannie Brown of Atlanta, Ga. For a guarantee of their room and board plus the chance to share in the cultural program, the Shakespeare Festival obtained the skills of the four young volunteers from the East.

AT WORK IN HIS studio in his Kentfield home is 17-year-old John Pasqualetti. The Marin Catholic High School student designed the costumes for "The Taming of the Shrew," one of the two plays being performed during the 1963 season of the Marin Shakespeare Festival.

DIRECTOR OF THE Marin Shakespeare Festival John Brebner models the costume of Roderigo from "Othello," while his wife, Ann Brebner, producer of the Festival at the Marin Art and Garden Center, offers a few suggestions. The Roderigo attire is from the Alexander Orloff Collection of theatrical costumes that totals more than 1,500 pieces and is capable of completely outfitting any Shakespearean production. (Independent-Journal photos)

CHOREOGRAPHER Shirley Mordine models the costume worn by Desdemona in "Othello" while Jeannie Brown of Atlanta, one of the Lisle Fellowship girls helping with the Marin Shakespeare Festival preparations, adjusts the hem. The costume is one of 12 rented by the Festival from the famed Alexander Orloff Collection in San Francisco. (Independent-Journal photos)

How Marin Shakespeare Festival Costumed Its Casts

feel that one of the Shakespearean companies may be interested in acquiring that portion of the collection, which includes 75 medieval and Venetian doublets for men alone."

Since his arrival in San Francisco, Orloff has continued his career as actor, director and teacher. He had headed his own Ensemble of Russian Drama in San Francisco and has taught the techniques of acting for five years at the University of California. But now he would like to retire.

HOW OLD is he? Orloff smiles: "Very old. Just say I have been on the stage for 52 years."

The Orloffs now make their home at 654 Fifth Avenue in San Francisco's Richmond District. Both are now American citizens and extremely proud and happy to be so.

In addition to his own productions, Orloff has rented costumes from his collection to such groups as the Actor's Workshop and University of California productions, and for such plays as "Three Sisters," "A Month In the Country" and "Mary Stuart."

"WE CAN outfit completely any Shakespearean play or any play by a Russian author," he says.

It was John Brebner, the Marin Shakespeare Festival director, who made the initial contact that resulted in the borrowing of the 12 principal costumes for "Othello." Twelve costumes do not, however, a Shakespeare Festival make, and so there remained the problem of finding the flamboyant toggery needed for "The Taming of the Shrew" plus wear for the remaining members of the "Othello" cast.

Seventeen-year-old John Pasqualetti of Kentfield, son of a doctor and a straight-A student, athlete and talented musician at Marin Catholic High School, provided a large part of the answer to that problem.

ALTHOUGH HE had never had lessons in art, John had submitted a series of sketches for costumes for "Henry V" to Festival officials last year. Such was their authenticity and verve that they were accepted at once for that very technical historical production.

This season the youth again prepared costume designs, this time for a very different kind of play from "Henry V" —the gay farce "The Taming of the Shrew." And again his work was accepted immediately by Festival officials.

But designs must be turned into working costumes, and this can be a gargantuan task when financial considerations make it necessary that the sewing of fine seams, the measuring of braids and the installing of hooks, eyes and zippers be done by volunteers.

HERE, ALMOST magically, four such pairs of hands were provided from an unexpected source, a unique organization known as The Lisle Fellowship.

Founded in Lisle, N. Y., and now headquartered at Ann Arbor, Mich., The Lisle Fellowship is a volunteer program of international scope devoted to the promotion of understanding among young adults. Young people of differing backgrounds are assembled as teams to be sent to various foreign countries and to other sections of their own country to learn through shared cultural, domestic, agricultural and occupational experiences.

ALEXANDER ORLOFF of San Francisco, actor, director, teacher and owner of one of the world's outstanding collection of theater costumes, was pictured here costumed for the main role which he played in a Russian classic play, the title of which translates to "Woe From Wit."

The teams live first in university, camp or conference facilities while undergoing instruction in the mores of the area to which they will be assigned. After this orientation is completed, suitable organizations accept the sponsorship of small groups, guaranteeing them room and board in exchange for volunteer work.

FOUR OF THESE young people—Julie Blom of Pleasantville, N. Y., Louise Uttal of Yonkers, N. Y., Georgia Golden of St. Simond's Island, Ga., and Jeannie Brown of Atlanta, Ga.—were referred to the Marin Shakespeare Festival. The arrangement was approved enthusiastically by Festival directors, who saw it as a major step forward in the solution of their costuming problem.

In exchange for room, board and, most important, the sharing in the cultural experience of participating in a well-planned, well-executed and growing-in-prestige Shakespeare Festival, the girls put their skills to work transforming young Pasqualetti's imaginative designs into actual costumes.

As busy as they were, those four pairs of hands, of course, were not enough for the complete job. But other volunteers came forth from the Marin community. Supporters of the Marin Shakespeare Festival program, both men and women from nearly all walks of life, contributed many hours to the costume project.

THEIR WORKSHOP was the ground floor of the apartment home of Ann and John Brebner, founders of the festival, in Sausalito. Those rooms buzzed with activity, with cutting and fitting, sewing and braiding, every day and many nights for six weeks.

And so it was that when first "Othello" and then a week later "The Taming of the Shrew" opened on the amphitheater stage at the Art and Garden Center, both were enhanced by costumes worthy of the work of the Great Bard. Othello, Desdemona and cast appeared in the elegance of the Orloff costumes which had lost none of their beauty and impressiveness through the decades and their travels. Petruchio, his Katherina and the other players in "The Shrew" wore apparel which, if of less dramatic impact and of less historic interest, nevertheless added just the right touch of gaiety and flamboyance to that lighthearted romp.

"The Taming of the Shrew" will be on the outdoor stage at Ross tonight starting at 8:30, while "Othello" will hold forth again next Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights as the two productions continue to be performed the final three evenings of each week on alternate weeks. The 1963 Festival closes Aug. 31.

THE CAST, the staff, the production crews have all received and earned their accolades.

But the fine acting and even the great lines of the immortal Bard could go for naught if costuming had not been provided on a similarly high plane.

Thanks to a talented Marin teen-ager, to four young people from the East Coast and an unusual program that brought them here, to tireless volunteers from Marin itself, and to a Russian theater couple who, despite adversity, built up one of the world's great costume collections and brought it to the Bay Area, the Marin Shakespeare Festival, 1963 edition, has operated under no such handicap.

Will Literature Be The Next Big Breakthrough For Negro?

By DON KEOWN

In those few fields in which the Negro race has been given something approaching a fair shake, it has more than held its own with Caucasians. Athletics, the entertainment world, music, certain civil service fields come readily to mind.

Literature may be the scene of the next big breakthrough.

For sure, some few Negro authors have already tasted success. But to do so they have had to be writers of rare ability—the James Baldwins, the Langston Hugheses, the Richard Wrights. The reading public has not accorded the Negro the same privilege it has given the whites of writing books of less than major significance—even books that are rough and essentially defective. And generally, the public has expected Negroes to confine their writing to subjects and situations involving their own race.

All this may now be changing. Books by Negro writers still learning are beginning to appear in greater numbers. And not all these books are confined to Negro characters and their problems.

An example: "The World of Violent Strangers" by young Walter Jenkins. It is simply a mystery or, more accurately, a crime novel, and not an especially good one. Jenkins is admittedly a beginner and makes many of the mistakes of the novice including the use of cliches, shallow, imitative plotting, excessive violence and unconvincing dialogue. Yet worse novels have been published. And we find it satisfying that Jenkins has been given this hearing. It may well provide the encouragement and experience he needs to produce a better novel in the future.

Certainly the book, with all its faults, demonstrates a willingness for work and a certain adeptness with words on Jenkins' part. And it is interesting that his central character is white while Negroes appear only in secondary roles. Furthermore, Jenkins is dedicated enough to spend his own time and money promoting his book.

We hope other Walter J. Jenkinses will be given their chance, and by more important publishers. Better editing and proofreading would have helped "The World of Violent Strangers" immeasurably. And the jacket blurb exaggerating the importance of the novel does not help.

Along this line, we have now on our desk "The Learning Tree" by Gordon Parks, still another first novel by a Negro. We haven't yet had the time to read it. But the publisher, Harper & Row, is very high on Parks. And our initial quick perusal indicates that enthusiasm may well be justified.

A FEW WEEKS back in reviewing Robert L. Webb's "Grammar for People Who Wouldn't Have to Worry About It If They Didn't Have Children," we observed that that book was more entertaining than informative, and too skimpy to offer more than bare minimum assistance to those plagued by problems in their use of the English language.

For those in search of a more practical text sans humor—we recommend an old standby, the late James C. Fernald's "English Grammar Simplified," now available in a new edition as revised by Dr. Cedric Gale of New York University.

Gale has brought up-to-date Fernald's time-tested manual of half a century ago. It is comprehensive without being unnecessarily complicated, handy without being superficial.

DANIEL BROUN, creator of the international adventurer Harry Egypt, involves that freebooter in a most unusual and imaginative "treasure hunt" in his new novel. "Egypt's Choice." Holt, Rinehart and Winston Inc., is the publisher.

Sleuths & Suspense

EGYPT'S CHOICE by Daniel Broun, Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 191 pages, $3.50.

In his "The Subject of Harry Egypt" Daniel Broun introduced one of suspense fiction's most individualistic and interesting adventurers.

Harry Egypt is not the suave gentleman-type crook you have become accustomed to in these kind of books. He's a hard-nosed soldier-of-fortune, a Humphrey Bogart type, rough and tough, interested in financial rewards not romance, fearless when there is enough money at stake and absolutely ruthless in going after those stakes. Yet he is not without redeeming features.

His fans will be happy to have Harry Egypt back in Broun's newest novel, "Egypt's Choice."

This time Harry engineers an elaborate scheme to locate and make off with some long-buried Civil War loot. His project is greatly complicated by the fact that the likely hiding place is now a part of a secret Presidential mountain retreat, restricted and heavily guarded.

Sounds fantastic? Well, the gifted Mr. Broun makes it all quite believable — and exciting.

Egypt's planning of his caper is so ingenius you have no difficulty forgiving him his irritating habit of dropping his auxiliary verbs when talking or thinking. There is a lot of rich geographical description, plenty of action, some fairly sharp characterizations. Doublecrosses and triplecrosses add to the complexity of an inventive plot.

"Egypt's Choice" is certain to leave the reader receptive to and anxious for still more Harry Egypt yarns. And you can bet that Broun will provide them.

THE MAKE-BELIEVE MAN by Elizabeth Fenwick, Harper & Row, 183 pages, $3.50.

The young woman menaced by a psychotic is hardly a unique plot for a suspense novel, but Elizabeth Fenwick handles it better than most writers.

"The Make-Believe Man" is a fine chiller, only a short notch below her exceptional "A Friend of Mary Rose."

A psychopathic creep is determined to gain entry to the home of Norma Hovie, and not even police protection seems sufficient to make her and her family safe. The atmosphere of growing peril is well done. And Norma's increasing terror in the face of a relentless, unreasoning adversary appears fully justified.

SALES OF "Peanuts" books in their original editions are now approaching three million copies while another two million have been sold as reprints. Both figures will now climb still higher with the publication of two more paperback collections of the Charles M. Schultz cartoons. "You Can Do It, Charlie Brown" is a selection of recent "Peanuts" strips, not previously available in book form, published by Holt, Rinehart and Winston, and selling for $1. The drawing above is taken from it. "For the Love of Peanuts," a 35-cent Crest reprint by Fawcett, is more vintage stuff, being strips that date back to when Linus was still crawling. Both, needless to say, are real rib-ticklers.

THE WORLD OF VIOLENT STRANGERS by Walter J. Jenkins, Royal Publishing Co., 150 pages.

ENGLISH GRAMMAR SIMPLIFIED by James C. Fernald, Funk & Wagnalls, 305 pages, $3.50.

THE PUBLISHING house of Charles Scribner's Sons plans to place heavy stress on handicrafts in its 1963-64 schedule.

Already out are a fifth printing of Erica Wilson's "Crewel Embroidery" and a reissue of Frances Lichten's "Folk Art of Rural Pennsylvania."

Scheduled for this fall and next spring are "Creative Embroidery" by Hope Hanley and "Homespun and Blue" by Martha Stearns, and for the fall of 1964, "Designs for Weaving" by Iona Plath.

MARIN POETS' CORNER

PRUNE PICKIN'

This is the life, the prune-picker's life,
A-tenting beneath a big willow:
I rise with the dawn, set the coffee pot on—
When I'd rather be snug on a pillow.

My floor's without rugs—and look at the bugs
A-crawling all over the butter!
Soft butter that ran clear over the pan,
And down, through the shelves' full clutter.

And yet, for all that, (prune-pickin' plutocrat)
Outdooring has compensation!
The world's very fair in the clean morning air
And my spirit is filled with elation!
Compensation? My yes! But, never-the-less,

I'd rather be home in a house—
Where I can be clean, and keep the kids clean,
And washing is more than a douse!

Then, give me the life of a city-man's wife,
Where homing is not so appalling!
Where a trip to the park is enough of a lark—
I'm through with Nature's wild calling!

Unconvincing Fare

ALL THE GODS AND GODDESSES by Kay Martin, G. P. Putnam's Sons, 380 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Richard S. Hahn, M.D.

This is an unbelievably shallow novel depicting the consternation of the staff of a large city hospital upon discovering its famed chief surgeon has bungled an operation.

Early, the reader and the surgeon ascertain the true reason for this and subsequent incomprehensible errors (he has a malignant brain tumor) while his brilliant surgical resident labors with the diagnosis throughout most of the book. Is it simply incompetence? Does the god really have feet of clay, or is he sick in the head?

Things go from bad to worse and in a final scene, the surgeon (by now rendered something less than adroit by a morphine addiction) culminates his career with a bloody faux pas which does in the wife of an idolizing intern. For comic relief, the reader is provided a tedious bedroom look at the manners and morals of off-duty doctors and nurses.

The characters are unbelievable, the plot naive and the narration in the best tradition of script writers medical jargon, and I fully anticipate it will become a large box office success.

In short: Unconvincing fare for the layman, impossible reading for those in the profession.

Only The Small Can Hear Stevenson's Poetry Right

A CHILD'S GARDEN OF VERSES by Robert Louis Stevenson, illustrated by Jessie Wilcox Smith, Scribner's. Reviewed by Claudia Royal.

"I saw you toss the kites on high And blow the birds about the sky;"

These lyrical words have been heard by three generations of children. According to Stevenson, "Only children hear it right." And they take these poems of childhood to their hearts.

The author gives much reference to the "pleasant land of Counterpane." Though Stevenson was frail and had to spend much time in bed, he was a cheerful child and his poems are lively and loved by little children.

Many days were spent on his grandfather's farm and the author's poems reflect experiences there. "The Hayloft," "The Cow," "The Swing" and others tell of outdoor play.

Jessie Wilcox Smith, one of our early illustrators, has endeared herself to children by her pictures, both black and white and soft color. "Her pictures have an old-fashioned grace and a wistful appeal" like unto Tasha Tudor's today.

First published in 1905, this children's classic was re-set in 1955.

THE STEREO SCENE

A Big Band Headed For Jazz Fete At Monterey

By JOHN SUNIER
Editor, FM & Cultural Guide

Today, let's listen to some jazz from Southern California:

SURGING AHEAD, Clare Fischer on piano with bass and drums—Pacific Jazz Stereo 67:

Not only is Clare Fischer a very talented composer-arranger, but he is also one of the top new jazz pianists on the scene since release of his first Pacific Jazz LP "First Time Out." He is now pianist with the Cal Tjader group.

His style is difficult to pin down—not entirely individual, but not nearly as eclectic as such people as Andre Previn. He readily swings in both the blues and more lyrical grooves.

The tunes are fine choices: Charlie Parker's "Billie's Bounce," Ellinton's "Satin Doll," Bix Beiderbecke's "Davenport Blues" among them.

MOMENT OF TRUTH, Gerald Wilson Orchestra—Pacific Jazz Stereo 61:

This Los Angeles-based big band which came into being about a year ago will be featured at the Monterey Jazz Festival in September.

The band, utilizing the cream of Southern California jazz talent, does not travel but has appeared at several clubs in the area. Among the notable soloists in the group are trumpet men Carmell Jones, Jules Chaikin and Al Porcino; reed men Teddy Edwards, Harold Land and Bud Shank; guitarist Joe Pass and pianist Jack Wilson. Their sound is full of excitement and drama, and yet characterized by a commendable simplicity.

As the title implies, the bullfight was the inspiration for the LP. However, only the first track, "Viva Tirado," is based on this theme. The title tune is a straight blues, one of the seven Wilson originals on the disc.

A swinging LP by a stimulating young arranger-composer in high-tension stereo.

ESSENCE, Don Ellis — Pacific Jazz Stereo 56:

Down Beat's new star of the year on trumpet is a pretty adventurous performer. His basic sound and technique harks back to Louis Armstrong, but his melodic work is as far out as any Ornette Colman.

Pianist Paul Bley, fairly avant-garde himself, contributes a great deal to the dry-sounding quartet.

Four of the eight tracks are Ellis originals and one is by Bley's wife, Carla. I still haven't decided, after several auditions, if I like this LP or not.

A SCREEN TO GRACE THE POOL

A swimming pool is a wonderful addition to any home.

But sometimes, despite its interesting shape and color, it is not an especially attractive feature.

Like any other element of the home, a pool must be related to the whole. If you just sink a pool in the lawn without remodeling the yard to include its presence, it's likely to look like an intruder on the scene.

ONE OF THE most effective — and least expensive — ways to incorporate a pool into the yard is to build a graceful screen along one side to act as a backdrop for the pool.

With a planting bed about a yard wide between the pool walking edge and the screen, a relationship to garden is established and all elements will tie together neatly. At the same time, the screen can be designed to provide privacy and control wind.

More interest will be created if the screen is built in angled sections rather than in a straight line, particularly if the pool is free-form. Height is not needed unless the fence is also to act as a privacy screen, but it should be three feet tall for good appearance, somewhat higher for an unusually long structure.

THE SLAT - STYLE screen is a good pool companion. It is delicate in appearance but has good texture.

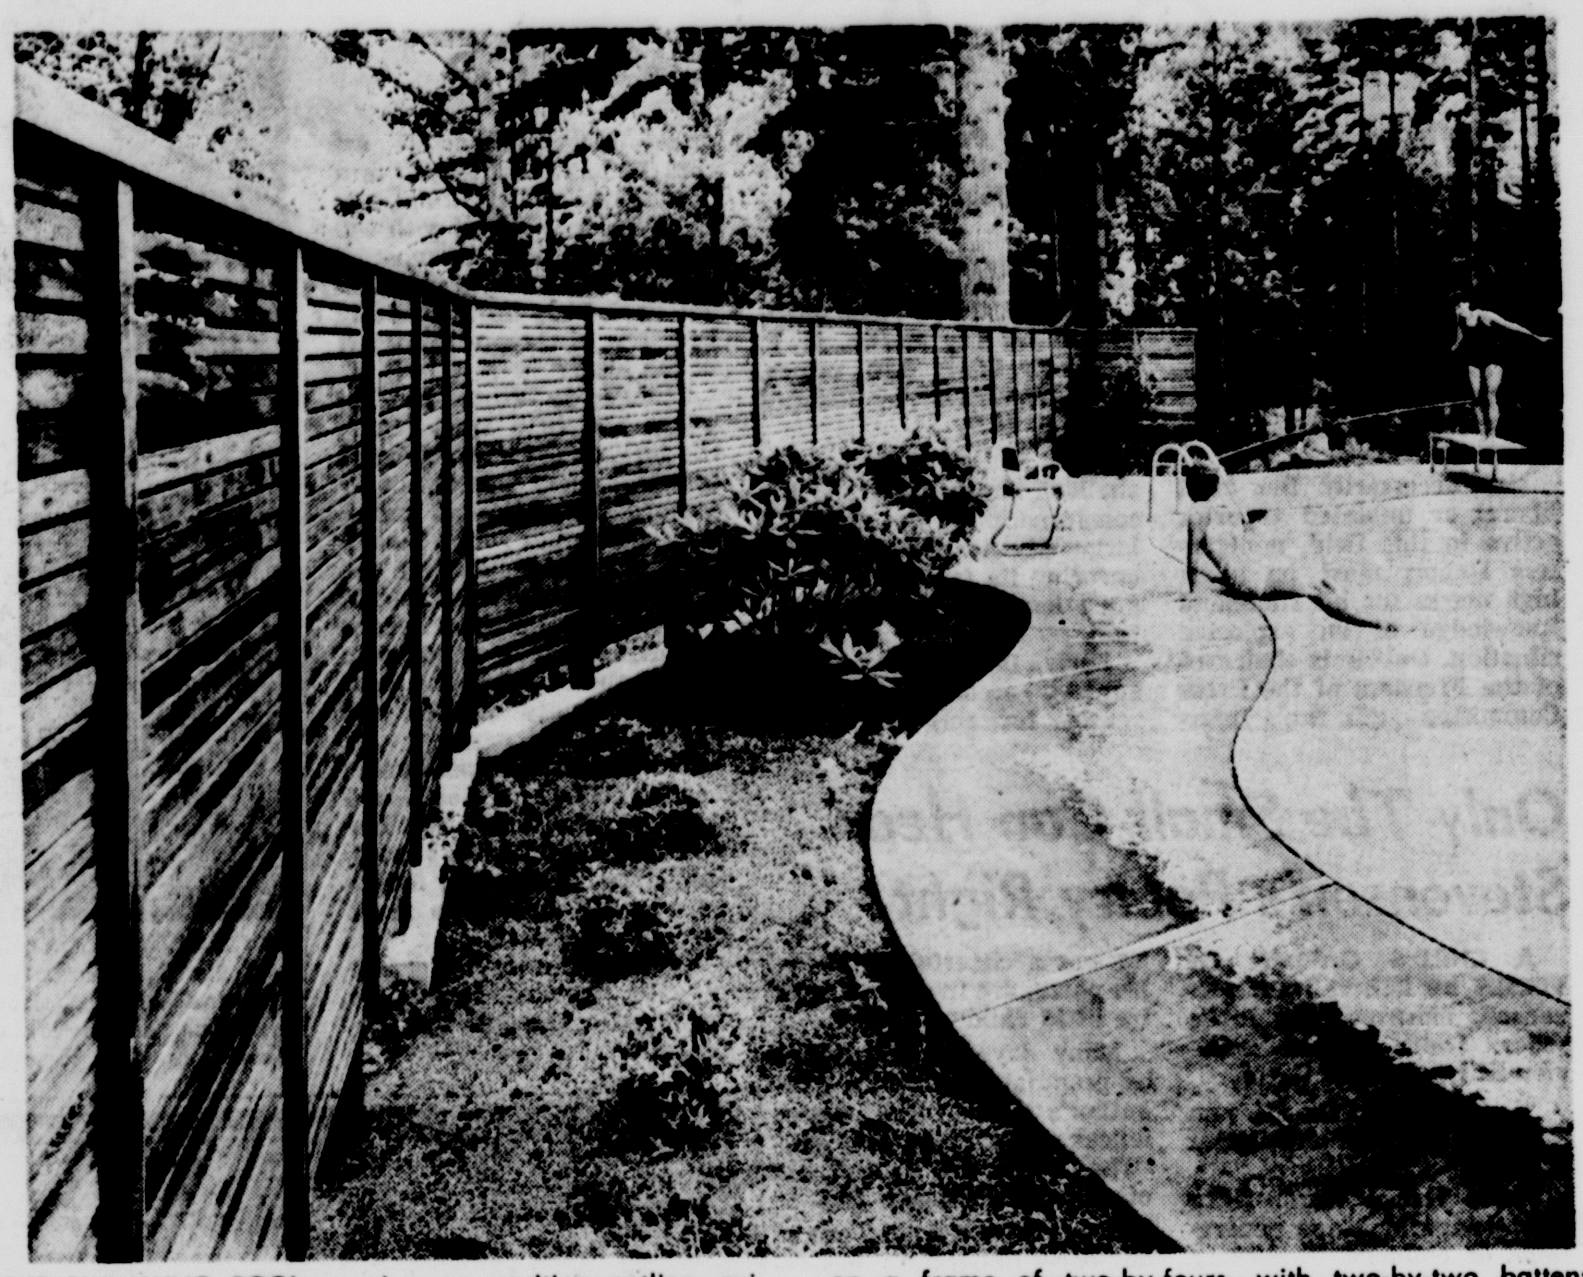
To build it, western red cedar one-by-ones are applied, with a half inch spacing between each, to a framework two-by-fours. Posts are four-by-four. One-by-ones can be installed either horizontally or vertically, but the horizontal application will emphasize the flowing quality of an angled fence and free-form pool. Vertical one-inch battens applied at about three foot intervals over horizontal boards produce a paneled, or screen-like effect.

Another bright idea for a poolside accessory is a storage fence, good especially if there is no storage space close at hand for pool equipment—scrapers, floats, chemicals, cushions and so forth.

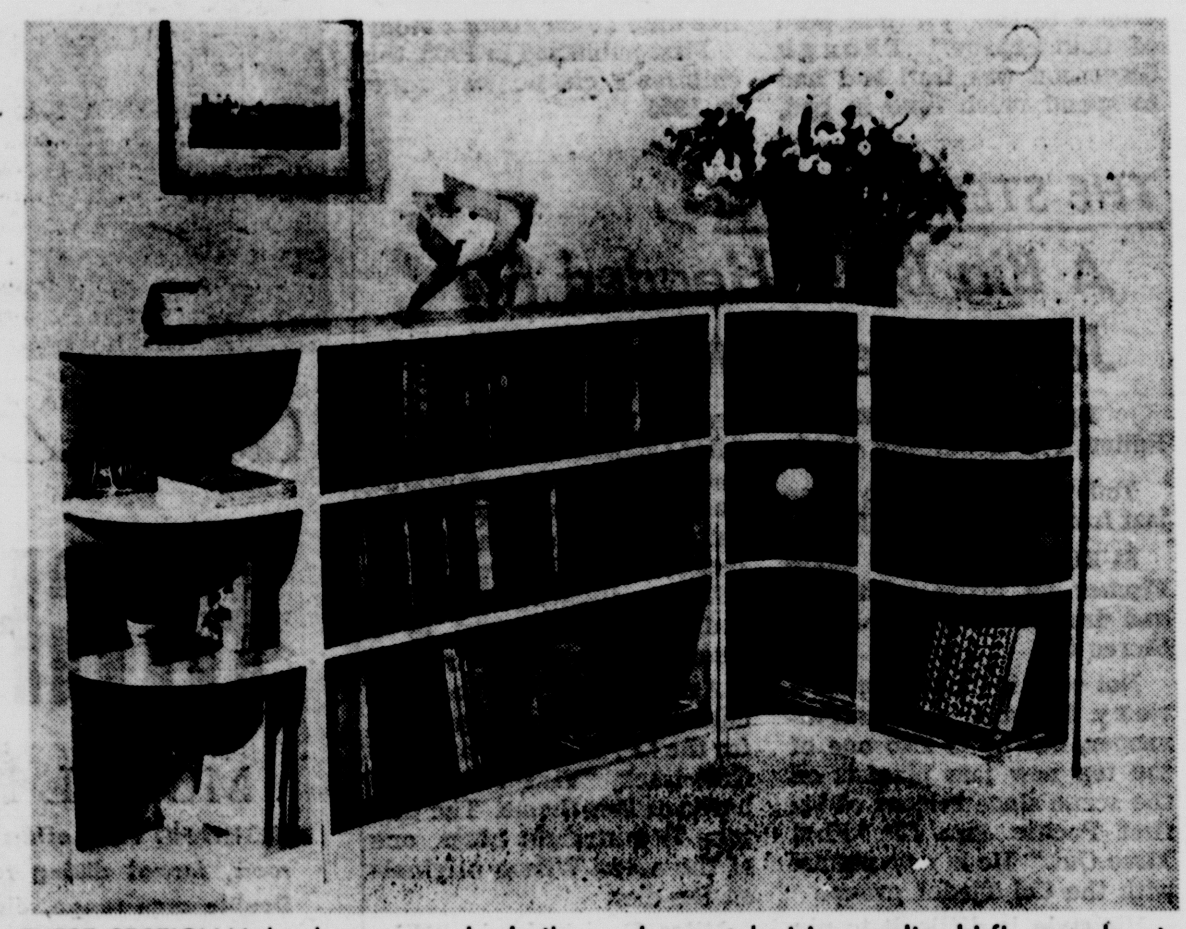
THE STORAGE fence can be built shed-style using two-by-four framing, a sloping roof for rain runoff, and locking doors. It can be incorporated into a regular fence by matching siding for the storage unit with the fence pattern.

Vertical tongue-and-groove siding, for example, blends well with the vertical board-on-board pattern or vertical louvers.

The storage fence could also be expanded to include dressing rooms.



THE SWIMMING POOL acquires an exciting outline, privacy and a wind barrier, all from this intriguing, tall fence. The screen is built of western red cedar one-by-twos on a frame of two-by-fours, with two-by-two battens nailed at three-foot intervals for added dimension. The screen style would also be ideal for a patio wall. (Photo by West Coast Lumbermen's Assn.)



THESE SECTIONAL bookcases can be built, as seen here, to flow around the corner of a room. They can also be expanded to reach from floor to ceiling. And they can house television, radio, hi-fi, records, etc., as well as books. Pattern is available for 50 cents by writing Independent-Journal, P.O. Box 215, Pleasantville, N.Y., and asking for Sectional Bookcase Pattern No. 42.

A Bookcase Built In Sections

Walk into any lumber yard and ask to see one-by-six, one-by-eight and one-by-10 No. 2 common grade lumber with tight knots, and you'll be agreeably surprised to see how inexpensively you can buy the materials required to build the bookcases shown here.

These can be built along one wall, around a corner, from floor to ceiling and to almost any length desired.

The available pattern includes a cutting chart which shows how to lay out all parts to obtain maximum use of material. Satisfactory results are assured, since the step-by-step directions explain where and when each piece is fastened in position. By cutting each part as specified, then joining all parts as the pattern indicates, amateurs can make like pros on their very first try.

While the illustration shows sectional bookcases being used for books, the same step-by-step directions can be followed to build shelves of sufficient width to house hi-fi, record storage, radio, television, etc.

Apartment dwellers, as well as home owners, find the pattern method of construction an economical way to solve many home furnishing problems.

Send 50 cents in coin, check or money order for Sectional Bookcase Pattern No. 42 to Independent-Journal, P. O. Box 215, Pleasantville, N. Y.

If You're Lucky And Have Lanai, Be Sure It's Well Landscaped

Gardening Page

If you are lucky enough to have a lanai room or a screened-in porch, you owe it to yourself to landscape it properly.

Much more pleasure can be derived from these indoor-outdoor living rooms when a few tropical plants are grown within their walls.

THE FIRST plants we think of when something green is wanted for a lanai are philodendrons. These large-leaved tropicals offer a wide selection of sizes and shapes for the indoor gardener to choose from. They thrive in areas where light is limited and are relatively immune to the caprices of inexperienced gardeners so far as watering and feeding are concerned.

Much confusion exists about which philodendrons are which, or even about which plants are philodendrons. Some members of the family are climbing, while others are not; some have large, split leaves a foot or two in length, while others have small, oval leaves only a few inches across.

Three of the most popular are:

PHILODENDRON oxycardium, the common, small-leaf house trailer of a dozen uses. You can grow it in a small pot hung on a wall bracket, or in a larger pot and train it up on a center support.

Philodendron bipinnatifidum, a relative newcomer in the family with large, deeply lobed leaves of striking character. This is a non-vining philodendron, suitable for growing in a large tub or planter.

Philadendron evansii, the Evans Philodendron, whose large, solid leaves with their wavy margins have made it a longtime favorite in California.

THERE ARE many others, but these will serve you well for a start. Give them a rich, coarse planting mixture and be sure to keep it moist. Overwatering will cause trouble, but with proper drainage you seldom over-water.

Related to the philodendrons and often classed as one by some nurserymen, is the Hurricane Plant, or Split-leaf Philodendron, a vining, large leaf tropical which will grace a lanai or entry hall.

It should be planted in a large container and allowed to ramble up a center support. This is one of the most popular plants for such settings, and deservedly so, as you will see.

ANOTHER wonderful plant for lanais is the Wax Plant, a succulent vine with handsome green foliage and star-like white flowers that are heavenly fragrant. Both the foliage and the flower of this popular indoor vine have a waxy texture which gives the plant its common name. You'll enjoy its companionship, especially during its summer bloom.

Give it a rich, coarse soil mix with plenty of leaf mold and a little sand. Give enough water to keep the leaves from shriveling, but don't overdo things in this respect.

A plant which grows to tree size in some sheltered gardens, but which is popular as a tubbed plant indoors, also, is the Rubber Plant. A member of the fig family, it is highly popular with indoor gardeners, having elongated, shining green leaves a foot long. You can use it indoors until it overgrows its bounds, then plant it outdoors for further show.

THE LOVELY Bird of Paradise plant also makes a good lanai plant when grown under the proper light conditions. It is not happy in dark corners, but will thrive by a sunny window or when grown on a well lighted screen porch. You couldn't ask for a more beautiful companion nor for better bloom performance.

Bird of Paradise blooms for well over half the year, taking a brief rest in late summer only. Even then you find an occasional one in bloom—almost as though it felt guilty about not showing color through 12 months of the year.

CAPE CORAL is a new hybrid tea rose just introduced by Jackson & Perkins Co. after a year's successful trial. It is the offspring of two prominent roses, Golden Masterpiece and Spartan, and provides a charming flower in shadings that range from orange coral to pastel coral tones. The luxuriant glossy green foliage is striking. Plant height varies from two and a half feet to four feet and produces many blooms for cutting purposes. Flowers may measure five inches across and have the lovely and haunting "old rose" fragrance.

GARDENERS CHECKLIST

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- Water lawns thoroughly and regularly. A well-watered lawn looks as handsome in August as it did in spring.
- Stop pinching out the growing shoots of chrysanthemums. Except for removing excess side buds, these should be left to grow now.
- Also for color in a hurry, flat-grown Unwin dwarf dahlias are available. But pinch out the initial bloom to develop sturdy plants and bring on more bloom later.
- Set out tall bearded iris this month. You'll find good selections of new varieties in nurseries.
- Plant sweet peas now for bloom before Christmas. Make sure you plant the winter varieties.
- You can still get some good fall color from daylilies planted in August.
- August is the best month for tuberous begonias. Sturdy young plants are available now and will bloom well into fall.

TODAY'S GARDENERS have many advantages over their predecessors. Such little things as the plastic-covered wire which this young girl is using to tie a branch of a finely-espaliered camellia greatly simplify green thumb chores. Camellias were introduced to the U.S. from the Orient the middle of the 19th century and beautiful species have been known to soar as high as 35 feet. Pruned to bush form or espaliered, they make a beautiful addition to any garden. And they are especially valuable as a solution to that "what to grow in the shade" problem.

Don't Overlook Evergreens For Shade, Ornamentation

So often when we think of shade, we think only of those deciduous members of the tree world, which shed their leaves in winter when we don't need them to shelter us.

There are times, however, when we want a shade tree as much for ornament as for the shade we get from it during the warmer months. Then we turn to the evergreens to see what we can find.

IF YOU CHECK with a local nurseryman, you'll find plenty of interest in this line. Some of our most decorative trees are evergreens that can serve you well for a spot of shade and a lot of good looks.

One of the first that comes to mind is the European Olive.

Gray-leaved and graceful, this tree is a tradition in California dating back to the mission days.

Along with the vine, from which come the grapes, the olive tree has a long history in our state; and a more appropriate choice for your California garden would be hard to find. Give it a sunny spot—which if you're thinking of shade, would seem natural anyway — and don't worry about planting it next to the house.

Its roots won't cause trouble and the foliage is airy enough not to block light and create gloom during winter months.

ALSO TYPICAL of our state is the California pepper, a pendulous beauty with finely cut foliage and pink berries the size and shape of pepper corns in fall and winter.

Some people hesitate to plant the California Pepper due to its voracious root system, which makes it difficult to grow other things, including lawns, below. If you are willing to give extra food to what you plant beneath it, however, the Pepper Tree is ideal for shade — not deep, dark shade, but light, airy shade which invites you to relax and enjoy yourself.

The Pepper Tree is much better for an annual pruning, which should be done to encourage a high canopy and to discourage the ground-sweeping tendency of its branches. Whatever its faults, the Pepper's merits are much greater.

An interesting tree — and one that dates back in the history to long before California was even known to exist—is the St. John's Bread Tree, or Carob. A native to the Mediterranean basin around Syria, its spoken of frequently in the Bible and its pods were the "husks" referred to in the parable of the Prodigal Son.

ST. JOHN'S Bread tree grows to 40 or 50 feet in height with an equal spread. It produces a dense head of shade and resists all manner of drought and thrives in sandy soil.

We name the magnolia last, not because it deserves a place at the bottom, but because it's a good tree to leave you with. You couldn't find a better one.

The grand old Southern Magnolia is still widely planted and still recommended. A smaller counterpart to this, however, is the St. Mary's Magnolia, and you'll find it a better choice where space is limited.

"REALTY VIEWS"

"I'd like to find a home with a couple acres of ground," said Ted Highland, as he called in from a local motel. "But our situation is rather unusual. Could we meet and discuss it?"

We could and did. Ted represented a successful out-of-state business with many customers in our area. Due to the seasonal nature of his business, he spent his summers here—away from his family. The rest of the year he could conveniently make short trips from his home in Oregon.

William A. Lewis

"I thought it might be logical to get a second home here," Ted said. "That way I'd be near the family. But I don't want the kids running the streets. My wife is good at keeping them busy if we just have projects enough for them to do. That's why I prefer an acreage type property. We'll have room enough for lots of family projects."

"Sounds like a good plan at that," I said. "What are your other requirements?"

Ted explained he made "good money" and wanted a nice place, even though they might not occupy it much of the time. Within a week, his problem was solved!

Panoramic View From Houses Keyed For Comfortable Living

Perfectly placed atop San Rafael's beautiful hills, the new Highland Vista development offers home-buyers imaginative design, solid construction, real living comfort and a panoramic view.

Kay Construction Co., which also builds custom houses on other sites, is the developer and contractor, and has so far completed nine of 52 homes it will build in a two-year period.

Fifty-four different home plans are available and prices for the houses, ranging from two to five bedrooms, begin at $30,950. Several model homes are now open, seven days a week, for public inspection.

Highland Vista is reached by going west on either Fourth or Fifth, turning right on H and following it to Forbes where you turn left. From Forbes, turn right on Elizabeth Way, then left on Ridgeway Drive where you follow the signs to Highland Vista.

William Timmer Realtor, exclusive agent for the development, has an office at Highland Vista.

MORE THAN GENEROUS closet space is a feature of the bedrooms of the Highland Vista homes. A master bedroom includes a full wall-to-wall closet plus two other large closets, all with built-in shoe racks. Bedrooms, too, are spacious and well-lighted.

KITCHENS OF the Highland Vista homes are all-electric Medallion Award winners. Large double ovens, built-in ranges, food blender, double sinks, garbage disposals, recessed towel racks, electric dishwashers and the indoor barbecues are just some of the features. Glass doors lead out to patio area and pool site. The molded birch cabinets are in the French Provincial style.

TWO ONE-HOUR SPECIALS of comedy and music, both repeats, are scheduled for Monday night. Starting at 9:30 p.m. on KRON-TV will be "The Milton Berle Show" with Uncle Miltie seen above at left in his role of Cleopatra, siren of the Nile. Jack Benny, Laurence Harvey, Lena Horne and Janis Paige are his guests. Beginning a half hour earlier on KPIX-TV will be "Just Polly and Me" with Phil Silvers and Polly Bergen, seen at right in one of their song-and-dance numbers.

INTEGRATION came to the University of Virginia in a different form when the popular African folk singer Miriam Makeba joined the Chad Mitchell Trio for some special music-making in the "Hootenanny" program originating from the Old Dominion State. They're singing the Zulu hunting song "Wimoweh." Molly Scott and the Travelers Three also performed on the bill which will be given a repeat airing tonight at 8:30 o'clock on KGO-TV.

AS LONG AS you are going to be watching repeats anyhow, you might as well make it two of television's most competent performers. The talented duo of Peter Falk and Dina Merrill co-star in "Bonfire" to be rebroadcast on "The Alfred Hitchcock Hour" next Friday at 9:30 p.m. over KPIX-TV. It is one of the better suspense dramas in that chiller series with Falk a standout in his role as an ambitious evangelist.

THE SUMMER WHIRL of beauty pageants continues. This week it's the "International Beauty Congress" at Long Beach, with KRON-TV scheduled to carry the finals next Friday at 10 p.m. Carol Soroka, 19, above, is not one of the competitors, but instead the official hostess for the pageant.

There has never been a better time to select that one most important piece of furniture for your home. New models have arrived from the recent Furniture Market and we're just bursting with enthusiasm.

What a Surprise!

New colors, unusual fabrics and styles that will really excite you. Best of all you can see them right here and now at Bellach's the only store with the facilities for so large a collection. Others may show you pictures but at Bellach's you actually see the furniture before you buy.

Very, Very Special

For a limited time we offer a truly luxurious 8-ft. sofa with large brass castors, foam filled seat and loose back cushions and your choice of ten beautiful all-quilted covers. Just $299

It's a way of life

No denying that in Marin we live in a more relaxed and gracious manner. Frankly, we don't care what is popular back east this season. It has to be just right for our pleasant way of living here or we won't show it at Bellach's.

So why not now?

You can have that wonderful new living room furniture delivered tomorrow and enjoy it while taking a full two years to pay if you so desire. Several credit plans from which to choose.

Don't forget . . .

A staff of qualified decorators is always at your disposal. No charge for this service, of course.
